Ashville Has Wealth Of Tradition

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following history of the village of Ashville was compiled by Miss Nellie Oesterle, 140 Lewis Ave., for the Women's Civic Club of Ashville. It is reprinted in The Herald with Miss Oesterle's permission.

By Miss Nellie Oesterle

On land once inhabited by the Mound Builders and later by Indian tribes, principally Shawnees, stands the thriving village of Ashville. It lies on a glaciated plain at an elevation of about 710 feet along the line of the Deep Stage Newark River with a floor level of about 570 feet and a fill of some 140 feet. The sand and gravel in the fill yield excellent water supplies.

Ashville in its march to progress over the years reflects an impressive parade of personalities, craftsmanship and achievement.

Location has been an asset for the village. While the railroad was an impetus to growth, the fertile land attracted settlers making agriculture a dominant industry in the surrounding area. These settlers needed stores for purchasing of goods and elevators to dispose of their grain.

Harrison Township was created in 1810, but it was several decades later that saw the beginnings of the village.

In the thirties Richard Stage owned a large tract of land and started a distillery. This was the beginning. About 1837 he sold the distillery to Mahlon Ashbrook who increased its capacity, built a grist mill and had a general store. For a while he did a thriving business. James Short was a partner for a short period. About 1855 the store was closed, but the distillery was run by others for several years.

In 1865 Ashville was just a cross roads. Main Street, running east and west was known as the Bloomfield Turnpike, and Long Street running north and south was called the Lockbourne Turnpike. Mill Road went south of Main Street at the site of the present home of Archer Stewart, down over the hill and across Walnut Creek. Later Mill Road was moved east to what is now Circleville Avenue, and a bridge was built about 1871.

The name, Ashville, was given to the village after a few business places started. It has never been verified whether the name came from Mr. Ashbrook or from the many Ash trees in the area. Another suggestion has been that a settler came from Ashville, Pa. Mr. Ashbrook built a house on East Main Street which later became known as the C.W. Nicholson home.

Edward Soper started a general store to supply the needs of the few residents. It was located at the southeast corner of Mill Road and Bloomfield Turnpike.

In 1874 the Scioto Valley Railroad, later N and W, was building through Harrison Township and planned going near South Bloomfield, but the residents there opposed the railroad and refused to sell land.

Mr. William Cromley foresaw the value of a new means of transportation and proposed to grant an easement through his land provided the company would build on the side of his acreage. This was accepted, and this enterprise provided the impetus for the growth of the village. The railroad was completed in 1875.

The first elevator was built in 1877. Houses were being built and it has been stated that more than 20 carpenters were working at one time.

In 1880 the village was incorporated. Forty-eight residents signed the petition for incorporation. The land had been surveyed and laid out by James Keyes, a surveyor, at the request of John P. and G. W. Dolby.

The plat laid out and sold by the Dolby's consisted of twenty-four lots.

The section of land was bounded on the west by Long Street extending three blocks north to Wright Street, then east eight lots, then south to Main Street. Bortz Street was the central street at that time. In 1886 the village annexed tracts of land west of the railroad.

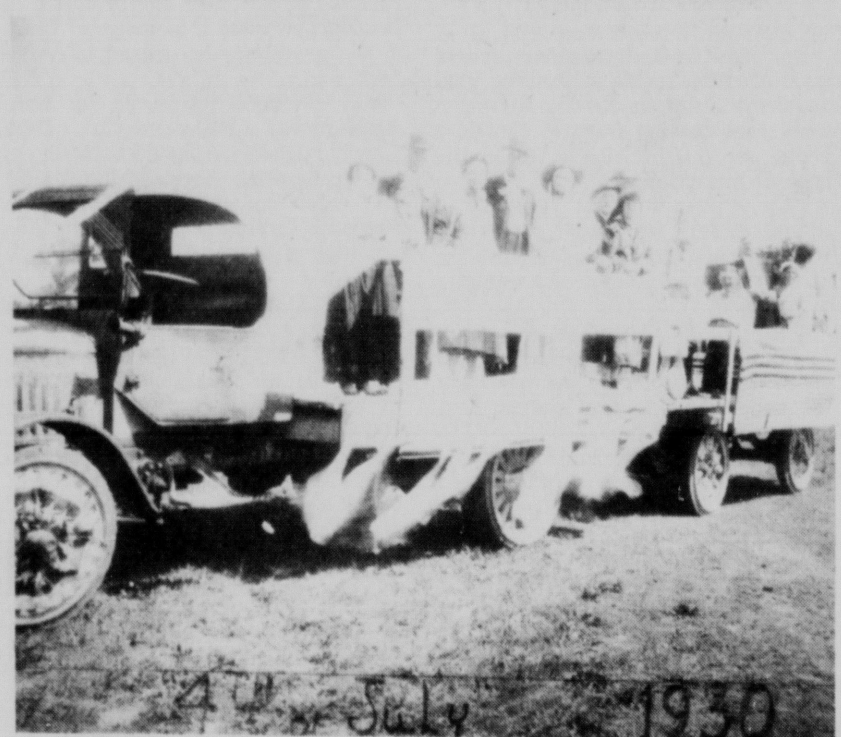

The village council first met in the basement of a harness shop at Long and Main. The present council house was built in 1884. W.E. Julian was the first mayor, and D.E. Julian was first clerk.

The earliest church was the United Brethren — formerly the Rehobeth Church of Harrison Township. The Evangelical Lutheran began in 1887 with the Rev. D.E. Snapp as pastor. In 1890 the Methodist Episcopal began with the Rev. A.F. Hixon as pastor.

A volunteer fire department was organized in 1896 with G.W. Brobeck as chief. The fire engine was hand pulled and hand pumped. The bell of the E.L. Church was used for fire alarm. High school boys were part of the volunteer group.

A newspaper, Ashville Enterprise was started in 1882 by M.L. Smith, D.E. Julian, S.D. Fridley and E.E. Fraunfelder. A second paper, The Recorder was begun in 1896 by J.W. and M.E. Shoemaker, but later merged with the Enterprise. This later became the Pickaway County News.

A hotel, located on the southeast corner of Wright and Long Streets was built by the Dolby brothers. This was (Continued on Page 15)

YFU Exchange Students Need Host Families

A number of energetic young students will be traveling to the United States in August as Youth for Understanding Exchange students.

Among these young people will be Yoriko Ichikawa from Japan, Yvo Peeters from Belgium, Detlef Keller from Germany, and Agnes Seyewetz from France.

They will live with a family here and attend high school.

Local YFU personnel are looking for families who will open their homes and hearts to these young people while they live here. As they share our living experiences as a "son" or "daughter" of some family, they will be sharing their own cultures and national heritage with their host family.

Host families, in addition to welcoming the students, provide the necessities such as food and housing. Other than this the host family does not have any unnecessary financial burden.

The exchange son or daughter participates as a regular member of the family and is given the same responsibilities and privileges as other children in the family.

Mrs. Frank R. Lands Sr. is the Area YFU Representative in Pickaway County.

If you feel that you would have room in your home and heart for one of these young people from some other country please call 474-2586 for more information.

Youth for Understanding is a non-profit educational organization which cooperates with and receives an annual grant from the U.S. Department of State in carrying out its goal of increased international understanding, particularly with people all over the world through student exchange.

Since its inception in 1951 Youth for Understanding has facilitated the exchange of thousands of U.S. and foreign students world-wide.

1905 Festival Included Sporting Events, Fireworks

In 1905 the Fourth of July began in Ashville with the firing of a salute at sunrise.

James H. Long and L. C. Hoover were the marshals of the day-long celebration of our nation's birthday.

A band concert at 8:45 p.m. welcomed celebrants to the village. The program during the day included a series of contests and sporting events.

E. E. Smith was in charge of the high school athletics at the old school grounds. The winner of each event received a medal. Events included the 220-yard dash, the standing high jump, running high jump, running broad jump, standing broad jump, shot put, hammer throw, baseball throw, 100-yard dash, one mile run, 2½-mile run and the relay race.

At 1 p.m. the Industrial-Comic Parade under the supervision of J. W. Shuemaker was held.

At 2 p.m. after the parade had cleared the streets, Nelson Beathard held the "slow mule race." Rules of the race were: "No whip nor spur allowed to be used as persuaders; twist his tail if you like. The slowest mule wins. The other fellow is to ride your mule and get in as quickly as possible — the slow one wins."

Circleville played Ashville in a baseball game in the afternoon. The contesting teams, headed by the Ashville Band, marched from the hotel to the Park. J. E. Rife was in charge of the arrangements for the game.

A contest for the finest appearing turnout, consisting of horse, buggy, harness, whip and gentleman accompanied by his lady, was held at 4:30 in the afternoon. Evening events included a relay race, an obstacle race, bicycle and foot races, a tug of war. A $2 prize was given to the person driving from the greatest distance to attend the celebration.

The day's events concluded with a community supper, a band concert at 8 p.m. followed by a "Pyrotechnic display."

This year's Fourth of July celebration begins officially at 7 p.m. Friday with the Annual Miss Fourth Parade and Pageant.

All entries in the arts and crafts show, the baked goods contest, the flower show, the art show are to be submitted between 9 a.m. and noon and will be judged on Friday.

Saturday's program includes the baby contest at 10 a.m. and the Little Miss and Mr. Parade and Pageant at 7 p.m.

Sunday there will be a Flag Presentation at 9:45 a.m., Community Church Service at 10:30 a.m. Morning Star Gospel Sing at 1 p.m., Original Revelations Gospel Sing at 2, the Country Sounds at 3:30, Jack Sherrick Dancers at 5, the Mowerys at 7 and 9 and fireworks at 11.

Monday the Flag Raising Ceremony begins the day. The Big Parade begins at 11. A band concert featuring the Adelphi Band will be held at 12:30. The Blue Lancers Drill team will perform at 1, the presentation of visiting queens from other festivals around the state will be held at 1:30, the Barber Shop Contest will be at 2:30, P. J. Ryal and Holiday Parker are scheduled at 4, Jack Sherrick Dancers at 5, the Green Parks Project at 7, Chuck Jackson at 9 and the festival will conclude at 11 with fireworks.

'Good Samaritan' Bill Signed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Victims, "good samaritans" and those attempting to capture criminal suspects will be eligible for compensation of up to $50,000 if they are injured under a bill signed by Gov. James A. Rhodes.

The measure, effective Sept. 29, offers reimbursements for economic loss such as a hospital bill suffered by innocent persons as the result of a criminal act. It does not provide compensation for pain, suffering or inconvenience.

The legislation, sponsored by Rep. David Hartley, D-60 Springfield, authorized the Court of Claims to consider pleas from crime victims and persons attempting to prevent criminal behavior or apprehend a suspect.

At least three commissioners will be added to the claims court for the sole purpose of handling victims' cases.

New Abortion Ruling Issued

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled today that states may not require a woman to obtain the consent of her husband, or a girl under 18 to receive permission from a parent, to get an abortion.

The decision struck down the parental and spousal consent provisions of a 1974 Missouri law but upheld a provision requiring the woman to give her written consent before the operation can be performed.

The ruling was the court's first major decision relating to abortions since it ruled 7 to 2 in 1973 that states may not regulate abortions during the first three months of pregnancy.

The 1973 ruling also blocked states from prohibiting abortions until after the fetus is capable of "meaningful life" outside the mother's womb, which generally occurs during the sixth or seventh month of pregnancy.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market pushed ahead today, adding to the gradual gains of the past two sessions.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks rose more than a point in the early going, and gainers took a 4-3 lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Trading was active. Analysts said the market was drawing continued support from the remarks Wednesday of Federal Reserve Chairman Arthur Burns, who said he intended to stick with a moderate monetary policy.

Today's early prices included Texaco, up 1/2 at 28 3/4; S.S. Kresge, unchanged at 35 1/2; G.D. Searle, up 1/4 at 15 1/2, and Rockwell International down 1/2 at 31 1/2.

On Wednesday the Dow Jones industrial average gained 2.13 to 1,002.78.

Controls On Oil Prices Now Gone

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional opponents say the end of five years of oil price controls today could add $128 to the annual cost of heating a home with the fuel, but the government says it might result in lower costs for consumers.

The restraints ended at midnight after the House and Senate Wednesday failed to block an administration plan to decontrol the price of heating oil and diesel fuel. A veto by either chamber would have been sufficient.

The House failed to halt the Federal Energy Administration proposal on a 208-194 vote. The Senate effort fell short 52 to 32.

Congressional opponents of decontrol, including Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., said the action means the cost of home fuel oil could rise as much as eight cents a gallon. Dingell said that each cent-per-gallon increase translates into $16 a year on the average fuel bill.

Supporters of the administration plan, including Rep. Clarence J. Brown, R-Ohio, said decontrol is likely to bring prices down. Brown said the system of price and allocation controls kept distributors from buying supplies at the lowest possible competitive prices.

That belief also was expressed by FEA Administration Frank Zarb when he proposed decontrol in mid-June. The FEA said Zarb did not expect price increases to result and that costs might even go down.

Controls were first imposed as part of former President Richard M. Nixon's wage-price control program in August 1971. Although controls on the rest of the economy eventually were lifted, those on petroleum remained when the Arab embargo of 1973-1974 created shortages in the United States.

Prices and allocations involved in the controls have varied among regions of the country according to demand, distributing costs and other factors.

The FEA has said that petroleum imports to the United States are now adequate and that continued controls did more harm to oil prices than good because retailers and wholesalers were locked into buying from past suppliers instead of being allowed to shop around for the best price.

The action did not lift controls on the price of gasoline, but Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said that was the next step to be proposed by the FEA.

State Opens Fiscal Year With Problems

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio started its new fiscal year today with hopes of a bipartisan compromise that would enable the state to pay its bills as they come due in the second year of its two-year bookkeeping period.

Spokesmen for both political parties said the solution to the state's cash flow problem may lie in a plan to bolster the power of school districts to borrow against delayed state subsidies.

Ohio should have enough revenue to balance the books at the end of the biennium on July 1, 1977, but because of high and low revenue months, it needs a device to even out monthly bills and cash.

Budget and Management Director William W. Wilkins wants the Democrat-controlled legislature to enact a bill that would extend school district borrowing authority beyond the calendar year to the end of the state's fiscal year next June 30.

That would enable the state's more than 600 districts to borrow against a total of about $180 million Wilkins would withhold between now and Jan. 1, 1977.

School districts operate on the calendar year—from Jan. 1 to Dec. 31—while the state's fiscal year runs from July 1-June 30. The pending measure would switch school districts to the state fiscal year "at least for borrowing purposes," Wilkins explained.

Majority Democrats frowned on the legislation when it was introduced late this spring by Rep. Frederick N. Young, R-38 Dayton. However, interest in it was renewed earlier this week when GOP Gov. James A. Rhodes vetoed another cash flow alternative. It involved advance collections of corporate taxes.

Senate Finance Chairman Harry Meshel, D-33 Youngstown, said he has been opposed to Young's bill because it would force the state's already hard pressed school districts to pay interest on the short term loans. He didn't know, the senator said, that the administration had agreed to endorse an amendment that would require the state to pick up the interest cost.

"If that's the case," Meshel said, "I would definitely say that the idea will be considered." Wilkins said "it would be good news for me if they did." He said the ability to withhold the school funds "would solve the whole (cash flow) problem."

Rhodes' veto of the plan to require advance, quarterly collection of the corporate franchise tax — which comes due for most taxpayers in that category on March 31 — actually was his second, even though it was his own proposal originally.

He backed away from it last year after being prevailed upon to do so by middle size, marginal industries which said it could drive them out of business. Meshel said he expects the veto to stand, since Republicans in the legislature have a "track record" of backing Rhodes, now matter how they voted previously.

Democrats can't override Rhodes' vetoes without GOP help.

Deaths

MRS. JANICE L. SALYERS
Mrs. Janice Lee Salyers, 40, 381 Clark Drive, died 11:10 p.m. Wednesday at Berger Hospital.
Born Feb. 23, 1936, in Stoutsville, she was the daughter of Harold J. and Mary Hedges Huffer, who survive at 682 E. Ohio St.

Other survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Douglas (Brenda Lee) Winks, Ashville, and Bonnie Lynn Salyers, of the home; a son, William E. Salyers, of the home; and a grandson, William E. Salyers III, of the home.

She was preceded in death by a brother, Harold L. Huffer, in 1972.

upholstered furniture and bedding.

The bill will put all manufacturers of such products under a licensing plan requiring a $25 annual fee and quarterly fees ranging from 1/2 cent to 2 cents per article, depending on the type of merchandise.

That plan is currently available to manufacturers, but the bill does away with a second option involving the use of adhesive stamps that are attached to products.

Under the abolished plan, manufacturers used stamps in the same denomination as the quarterly fee under the licensing system, thus saving the $25 annual fee.

The legislation, requested by the Division of Bedding, Upholstered Furniture and Stuffed Toys, was recommended by the Governor's Cost Control Council. The state estimates it can take in an additional $200,000 a year under the single licensing system established by the bill, which was sponsored by Rep. Charles R. Saxbe, R-75 Mechanicsburg.

Rhodes approved effective immediately a bill authored by Rep. Arthur Wilkowski, D-46 Toledo, clarifying that municipal courts can turn over costs, fees and penalties to local government treasuries.

The governor also signed effective Sept. 29:

—A measure sponsored by Sen. Anthony J. Celebrezze Jr., D-25 Cleveland, exempting manufacturers of premixed, bottled highballs, cocktails and cordials from the beverage tax until the products are actually sold to a wholesaler or retailer.

—A bill introduced by Rep. Rodney H. Hughes, R-78 Bellefontaine, increasing from 100 to 150 the maximum capacities of state-assisted juvenile detention homes or rehabilitation facilities.

—A bill offered by Rep. C. J. McLin, D-36 Dayton, authorizing the sale of 19,496 acres from the Department of Mental Health to the Dayton School Board for expansion of a high school and construction of a junior high school.

—Legislation proposed by Rep. Kenneth Rocco, D-7 Parma, permitting elected city officials to receive raises during their terms in office.

Israelis To Negotiate With Hijackers

kampala, Uganda (AP) — Israel offered today to negotiate the release of Palestinian prisoners in exchange for hostages held by Palestinian hijackers at Uganda's Entebbe Airport and the hijackers announced they would release about 100 of their 200 captives.

The terrorists also extended their deadline for compliance with their demands for three days, until 8 a.m. EDT Sunday.

A communique issued by the Paris embassy said: "The Israeli government has taken a decision concerning the hostages of the airbus diverted to Uganda. The Israeli government would be prepared to open negotiations through and jointly with the French government for the liberation of all the passengers in exchange for a certain number of prisoners held in Israel."

The hijackers had demanded the release of 40 prisoners from Israel, including Archbishop Hilario Capudji, the Greek Catholic archbishop of Jerusalem who is in prison for arms smuggling, and Kozo Okamoto, the Japanese who with two accomplices killed or wounded about 100 people in the Tel Aviv airport massacre in 1972.

Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin's cabinet retreated after more than 24 hours of intense pressure from angry relatives of Israelis among the hostages mobbed the prime minister's office in Jerusalem demanding that he surrender to the hijackers' demands.

Air, Space Museum Opens In Capital

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the help of a signal from the Viking 1 spacecraft orbiting Mars more than 200 million miles away, the new National Air and Space Museum is being dedicated as a Bicentennial addition to the Capitol Mall.

The museum, with 10 acres of exhibit space, contains imaginative displays and crafts tracing the history of flight. It is expected to become one of the most popular tourist sites in Washington.

"Confined within these walls and windows are the products of American men and women whose imagination and determination could not be confined," President Ford said in remarks prepared for today's ceremony.

Surrounded by symbols of flight, Ford said the hallmark of the American adventure has been "a willingness — even an eagerness — to reach for the unknown."

The Viking signal, which takes 18 minutes to travel to earth, will activate a mechanical arm for the ribbon-cutting ceremony. A similar arm is installed on the Viking to scoop up samples of Martian soil.

The Viking had been scheduled to land on Mars on July 4, coinciding with the nation's Bicentennial celebration, but that was delayed because of difficulties in finding a nonhazardous landing site.

Museum director Michael Collins, a former astronaut, expects an average of 50,000 visitors to the new facility daily.

They will not feel jammed in. The glass and marble structure is two blocks long, a block wide, with an expansive central corridor and has glass-fronted bays soaring to more than 82 feet, from which are suspended some of the most historic aircraft.

A central exhibit bay, called Milestones of Flight, contains the Wright Brothers' Kitty Hawk flyer suspended over the Apollo 11 command module which Collins piloted while Neil Armstrong and Edwin E. Aldrin became the first men to walk on the moon.

In addition, there is a moon rock which visitors may touch; Charles A. Lindbergh's Spirit of St. Louis; the Bell XI, which was the first aircraft to exceed the speed of sound; and the craft in which John Glenn became the first American to orbit the earth.

Elsewhere on the museum's two floors are displays of commercial aircraft, ballooning, the technology of flight, and military planes, including German, Italian, and Japanese craft.

Tall Ships Leave For New York City

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — An international fleet of some 135 sailing ships puts to sea past the colonial forts of Newport Harbor today, bound for a parade of sails past the skyscrapers of New York to mark the nation's 200th Fourth of July.

Heading the fleet is the American bark Eagle, a stately 295-foot ship used to train Coast Guard cadets. The Soviet Union has two huge square-riggers in the procession. In all, some 30 countries are represented.

Once in New York, these ships and several dozen more will be reviewed by a modern fleet of 57 naval vessels, and Capt. James L. Fleishell, captain of the port of New York, said Wednesday that some 20,000 spectator boats are expected to watch.

"We've never had an operation this large, and we're not sure what's going to happen," Eugene Kenyon, chief of tall ships operations here, told a briefing of captains Wednesday. He suggested vessels stay 600 yards apart, and he added: "I think you might be more comfortable at 1,000 yards."

The Eagle is the largest of four American square-riggers in the fleet, which includes 17 classic wind-jammers taking an ocean route around Long Island because their masts are too tall to pass under the Brooklyn Bridge. The Eagle's, for example, tower some 150 feet above sea level.

Like the Eagle, most of the tall ships — the phrase is from a poem by John Masefield lauding the seagoing life — have crews of several hundred and are used to train naval or merchant marine cadets.

Also like the Eagle, two square riggers — Portugal's Sagres and Russia's Tovarishch, were built by Germany in the 1930s to train its navy. The United States, which acquired its bark in 1946 as a war prize, promptly changed the name from Horst Wessel, who was an early Nazi hero. Even today, one Coast Guard pamphlet somewhat delicately refers to the Eagle's first namesake as "an early leader of a German political party."

Most of the ships arrived in Newport last weekend after an arduous and sometimes disappointing transatlantic race that twice turned into a motor cruise for the biggest ships for a lack of wind.

New Jersey Schools Shut

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — An estimated 100,000 students were shut out of summer programs today by a state Supreme Court order to shut down the entire public school system in New Jersey.

The court order took effect after the state legislature failed, by midnight Wednesday, to adopt tax legislation needed to fund a new state school aid law.

The state's highest court had ruled that the current method of funding schools, based on local property taxes, is unconstitutional because it discriminates against students in poorer communities.

On May 13, it ordered all spending for public schools halted today unless the legislature had adopted a new school financing method.

The Assembly struggled Wednesday night to pass a tax bill to raise the $378 million for the school aid law. The state Senate waited in the wings, ready to take up any bill sent over by the Assembly.

The Assembly had delayed work on the bill awaiting word from federal district court judges on motions to stay the state Supreme Court order.

By a 9 to 2 vote Wednesday, the district court refused to stay the order, rejecting the argument that schools could not be shut down because public education is a constitutional right. They ruled it is not.

In Newark, Jonathan Goldstein, the U.S. attorney for New Jersey, said he would go before the U.S. 3rd Circuit Court of Appeals in Philadelphia today to file an appeal of the ruling by an 11-judge U.S. District Court panel.

The developments Wednesday and early today were the latest in a three-year effort to reform school funding and taxation in New Jersey.

In April 1973, the Supreme Court said the state government had to find a new method of paying for public education in New Jersey that would shift reliance for educational funding away from local property taxes.

The Assembly on Wednesday night roundly defeated amendments in a measure calling for a flat 2 per cent tax on adjusted gross income that would have raised some $670 million a year.

Early today, the 80-member Assembly rejected two proposals to increase the 5-cent state sales tax by one and two cents.

The 100,000 students in summer school programs affected by the court order included an estimated 4,300 taking credits needed to meet graduation and college entrance requirements, school officials said.

Gov. Brendan T. Byrne, meanwhile, delayed signing the new $2.85-billion state budget Wednesday although the law technically requires adoption of the appropriations act by July 1 each year. A spokesman for the governor said he would sign the budget "by morning."

23 Highway Deaths Seen Over Holiday

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Twenty-three persons are expected to die on Ohio highways over the July 4th holiday weekend, according to the Department of Highway Safety.

That figure compares to 12 highway deaths during the same weekend last year and is only four fewer than the number of persons who died just last weekend.

The 19 deaths June 26 and 27 eclipsed this year's Memorial Day toll of 18.

This holiday's death count will begin 6 p.m. Friday and conclude midnight Monday. Donald D. Cook, highway safety director, in addition to providing statistics, warned motorists that the Highway Patrol will be out in full force both on the roads and above them watching for speeders, drinking drivers and other offenders.

Cook's statisticians broke down the predicted deaths this way: Eight deaths will occur in cities; 15 will occur in rural areas; four of the total will be motorcycles; 10 will happen during the day and 13 will occur at night.

Cook noted in announcing the statistics that Ohio had the best safety record for traffic fatalities last year for states of comparable size and added that careful driving could make his statistics for this weekend far too high.

So far this year there have been 279 fatalities on Ohio highways.

Alcoholism Flap

Tempting reformed alcoholics to return to "normal" drinking habits because a study found a few have done it without returning to alcoholism is like waving a red flag before a bull. The Rand Corp. study claiming some cured alcoholics have proved total abstinence is not necessary for them has produced an instant and sustained cry of dismay from others engaged in the research and treatment of alcoholism.

Until now it has been almost a cardinal rule in alcoholism treatment that total abstinence is part of the cure. The temptation to relapse into the despair of alcoholism, it was felt, was too strong to countenance even a single drink.

By their denunciations of the Rand Study, other researchers in the field have made clear they still hold to the standard precepts. The problem in pointing out the exception to the rule is that there is no way of telling in advance which is the exception. After the test has been made could be too late.

Jog Now — Live Later

EDITOR'S NOTE: Phylliss Battelle is on vacation. Today's guest columnist is Jim Rym, whose name has been synonymous with long-distance running since he participated in his first Olympics while still in high school. As a 17-year-old, he became the youngest ever to break the four-minute mark for the mile run. Up to his retirement, he set five American and a number of world marks. In 1966, the Kansas schoolboy was acclaimed the nation's outstanding amateur athlete.

By JIM RYUN

We should all be running for our lives.

But, alas, only a handful see the real issue in jogging and other exercise. It is not a means to let us hang onto youth, although it does help. It is not the leg and shoulder muscles and flat tummies that are so important, although they have their place.

It is the cardiovascular system that ought to drive us all to slip on a good pair of running shoes and take to the turf — or concrete if necessary. Of the half dozen key elements in preventing heart attacks and serious heart trouble, exercise is one of the most important.

Many people simply don't want to face the facts, just as many are unwilling or unable to give up smoking or go on meaningful diets. But unfaced facts don't go away, much as we might wish them to.

Ideally, good physical fitness habits should start with the young, and, of course, this is becoming increasingly difficult because of major cuts in physical education and other exercise-oriented extracurricular activities due to a national crunch on school budgets.

I think loading the budget cuts into these areas does our youth a disservice. What good does it do to turn out top flight engineers or cost accountants or computer programmers if they don't know how to take care of their bodies and die in their 40s or even late 30s. We have to teach our young how to make their bodies last. It is certainly as important as learning the mysteries of chemistry or French grammar.

I am happy to be "running" cross country to help do something about this problem. In an innovative version of the boxtops-for-premiums arrangement, a cereal company is making gym and other physical fitness equipment available free to some 90,000 public, private and parochial schools this fall to ease their budget problems and to help insure that the young get the right habits that will prolong their lives. I travel from city to city, jogging to promote the program.

But the young are not the ones now in the critical years, the ones who live in a non-renewable asset that statistics indicate they are abusing badly.

I like to run for my exercise. I ran my way to three Olympics and several world records. But now I run for my life, and probably, so should you.

Many people put off exercise because they consider it too dull and feel that statistics probably will not catch up with them.

But there is more to exercise than huffing and puffing yourself into shape. With good muscle tone, there is a distinct change in mood and outlook. In most cases fitness brings with it a sort of drug-free high. Higher energy levels, more optimism and near euphoric sense of well-being often are by-products of that four- or five-times weekly period of exercise.

Medical science still ponders just how much jogging is necessary to keep fit and to help ward off a coronary. Basically, I believe it is about two to three miles daily.

The best time of day appears to be one of personal choice. I prefer running early in the morning. It is a quiet and peaceful time, and it lets me start off the day with a feeling of accomplishment. Some people like to run after work as a tension releaser. The important thing is not when but whether, and many who like the afternoons find they don't keep to a good schedule because of work and social pressures after 5 p.m.

Of course no running, or any other serious regimen, should be started without consulting a doctor. The idea is to prevent coronaries, not bring them on.

Something else to do before you start jogging: Get good shoes. Tennis shoes are too light as are most "sneakers." Get heavier soled running shoes that will cushion the feet from impact and ease the strain on knees, shins, hamstrings muscles, thighs and lower backs.

Allow up to six months for the body and its metabolism to adjust to jogging. Begin by running about one-half mile three or four times a week, and then gradually increase the distance.

In jogging, too slow is not too good. Try to run the mile in about 10 to 12 minutes. If cramps of sluggishness develop in the early stages of your jogging, take the day off. Overexertion is not good for the body or morale and may turn you off of a very important health program.

For the same reason, vary your jogging route and try to team up with

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Of the many statistical measures of the economy, perhaps the most criticized are the employment figures, against which millions of Americans often measure their own degree of job security.

Some critics claim the unemployment rate is reported higher than it really is, while others say it is understated. Elements of both extremes join to insist that the techniques used are imperfect.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics, which each month reports the usually fractional changes in the jobless rate, concedes it had serious problems with the figures in 1975, particularly with the seasonal adjustment factor.

Jack Bregger, chief of the Division of Employment and Unemployment Analysis, said very significant adjustments of the factor have been made this year, in effect making this year's jobless reports different from last year's.

If the same adjustment factor had been used in 1975, he stated by telephone, it would have reduced the rate in some months, such as in May, and raised it in others, such as June, but only slightly.

While the changes are mainly small, it is this imprecision that troubles some critics who observe that in times of economic indecision, even tiny fluctuations month to month are interpreted, correctly or incorrectly, as signals.

But questions arise also about the raw data. In the same March-June period of 1975 in which the BLS had problems with seasonal adjusting, it had difficulties also with the raw data that remain unsolved.

In that period, one-half million people, more or less, were "lost" in the sense that they appeared in one survey but not in another, conducted at the same time. While variances are common, differences of this magnitude are not.

"The gap exists," said Bregger a year later. "We don't know what caused it; there's no explanation. What would have to happen to correct the gap is a gap in the opposite direction."

Considered even critical by some statisticians is that what they believe to be the more reliable of the two surveys showed employment not improving until June, whereas the more optimistic one, used in the official rate, showed it improving much earlier in the year.

Curiously, a nongovernmental surveyor of employment never saw the early improvement. It said its figures agreed with the less optimistic survey throughout the year, as they had for years before and have since then.

Julius Shiskin, highly regarded commissioner of the bureau, maintains he has long sought to have a panel of experts review and improve procedures.

"I tried to set it up in June (1973) at my confirmation, and I've been working on it since," he said in a telephone interview some months ago. Shiskin said he believes his recommendation was passed on by superiors to President Ford. The panel has not been named.

Discrepancies, meanwhile, reportedly occurred in the two surveys again this year, prompting New York's Citibank to comment that the January jobless rate didn't fall as deeply as reported.

Charles Killingsworth, university professor of economics and labor and industrial relations at Michigan State University, believes the true jobless rate early in 1975 rose to double-digit levels, although the highest rate reported was 9.1 per cent, revised this year to 8.9 per cent.

Significantly, Killingsworth notes that in November 1975, when so many economic indicators were improving, the number of workers without a job six months or more was 1.7 million, highest in the post-World War II period.

The professor, who is also chairman of the National Manpower Policy Task Force, maintains that if today's unemployment rates were arrived at by methods used prior to 1965, a full point automatically would be added.

The AFL-CIO continues to record unemployment in the double digits. In May it reported a rate of 10.1 per cent, based on what it said were 9.6 million out of work or working part time. The official reading was 8.660,000.

But not everyone agreed the figures are understated. While St. Louis challenges the jobless figures as too low, thus denying it certain revenue-sharing funds, Massachusetts claims the figures are inflated, costing it money also.

The latter says the "inflated" rates have driven up its borrowing costs; in support, a study by the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston suggests the jobless rate for New England has been overstated for four years.

Another criticism comes from Albert Cox, former member of the Council of Economic Advisers under President Richard M. Nixon and now chief economist of Lionel D. Edie & Co., consultants.

In the 1930s and even after that, he observes, "unemployment and individual hardship generally went hand in hand. Today, some households have another breadwinner and greatly improved jobless benefits."

Whatever else the various criticisms might add up to, they have in common the merit of pointing out the dangers in the popular usage of one set of statistics that is watched as closely as a patient's fever thermometer, and often considered to be just as accurate.

Mom Awaits Visit From POW Son

HAWTHORNE, Calif. (AP) — Mrs. George Veneris never lost faith that her son, James, a prisoner of war who chose to remain with his Communist captors after the Korean War, would someday return to see her.

"It's the biggest thrill in 25 years," she said after learning Tuesday that her son will be allowed to visit his native country.

Veneris, who now lives in China, was one of 23 American prisoners of war who stayed with the Communists after the war. He asked to return to the United States for a visit and will be issued a passport, State Department officials said Tuesday.

The State Department said the 53-year-old Veneris is still an American citizen and needs only a passport to return to the United States.

All the other Americans but one, Howard G. Adams, have returned home since the Korean war. Adams also lives in China.

Mrs. Veneris, 78, last saw her son 25 years ago when he left for Korea. But her daughter, Nesta Greth, said her mother never doubted she would see James again.

"She always had this faith that he would come back and see her," Mrs. Greth said. "She has been waiting for this for 25 years."

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

My mother, 77, does not have specific complaints, yet she often awakes and spends the day complaining that "everything aches." Could she be putting us on?

Mrs. R.V., Ind.

Dear Mrs. V.: It is easy to dismiss someone else's complaint of this generalized feeling of "pain all over."

At first, it may seem to have psychological overtones. But more and more doctors are realizing that there is, especially in the elderly, a condition which can only be described by them as "hurting all over."

Dr. Louis A. Healey, of the University of Washington School of Medicine, made an important contribution when he wrote about this as a specific disease of the elderly. It is called poly-myalgia rheumatica.

It seems that it occurs more frequently in women than in men and it is his observation that it occurs in people past 60.

In a recent article in The Consultant magazine he said, "Typical complaints are pain and stiffness in the back, neck, shoulders and thighs. The pain may appear gradually or suddenly."

He said, "One woman told me that she went to bed one night feeling fine, but awoke the next morning as sore as if she had 'hoed a field of potatoes.'"

Apparently, poly-myalgia can be incapacitating. Many elderly people simply cannot get out of bed in the morning, even though the pain was absent the night before.

There are a number of tests to confirm this condition. All of these should be made on your mother before accusing her of a "put-on."

My son fractured his leg while skiing this winter. Now he wants to play soccer. Is that leg more vulnerable to injuries than before?

Mrs. W.L., Mass.

Dear Mrs. L.: Once a fracture heals, especially in young people, the bone must be considered to be as strong and firm as before the injury.

It must be remembered that the muscles, ligaments and tendons, having been in a cast for many weeks, may be thinner and less strong than they were before.

With active and passive massage and exercise these, too, return to their normal, healthy state.

Once your son is cleared by his doctor, there is no reason why the bone should be considered more vulnerable. He should not be deprived of a healthful sport because of his injury.

Significantly, Killingsworth notes that in November 1975, when so many economic indicators were improving, the number of workers without a job six months or more was 1.7 million, highest in the post-World War II period.

The professor, who is also chairman of the National Manpower Policy Task Force, maintains that if today's unemployment rates were arrived at by methods used prior to 1965, a full point automatically would be added.

The AFL-CIO continues to record unemployment in the double digits. In May it reported a rate of 10.1 per cent, based on what it said were 9.6 million out of work or working part time. The official reading was 6,860,000.

But not everyone agreed the figures are understated. While St. Louis challenges the jobless figures as too low, thus denying it certain revenue-sharing funds, Massachusetts claims the figures are inflated, costing it money also.

The latter says the "inflated" rates have driven up its borrowing costs; in support, a study by the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston suggests the jobless rate for New England has been overstated for four years.

Another criticism comes from Albert Cox, former member of the Council of Economic Advisers under President Richard M. Nixon and now chief economist of Lionel D. Edie & Co., consultants.

In the 1930s and even after that, he observes, "unemployment and individual hardship generally went hand in hand. Today, some households have another breadwinner and greatly improved jobless benefits."

Whatever else the various criticisms might add up to, they have in common the merit of pointing up the dangers in the popular usage of one set of statistics that is watched as closely as a patient's fever thermometer, and often considered to be just as accurate.

Mom Awaits Visit From POW Son

HAWTHORNE, Calif. (AP) — Mrs. George Veneris never lost faith that her son, James, a prisoner of war who chose to remain with his Communist captors after the Korean War, would someday return to see her.

"It's the biggest thrill in 25 years," she said after learning Tuesday that her son will be allowed to visit his native country.

Veneris, who now lives in China, was one of 23 American prisoners of war who stayed with the Communists after the war. He asked to return to the United States for a visit and will be issued a passport, State Department officials said Tuesday.

The State Department said the 53-year-old Veneris is still an American citizen and needs only a passport to return to the United States.

All the other Americans but one, Howard G. Adams, have returned home since the Korean war. Adams also lives in China.

Mrs. Veneris, 78, last saw her son 25 years ago when he left for Korea. But her daughter, Neta Greth, said her mother never doubted she would see James again.

"She always had this faith that he would come back and see her," Mrs. Greth said. "She has been waiting for this for 25 years."

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Thursday, July 1, the 183rd day of 1976. There are 183 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in History:
On this date in 1862, the U.S. Congress established the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

On this date:
In 1863, the Civil War Battle of Gettysburg began.

In 1881, the American Red Cross was incorporated, with Clara Barton as president.

In 1898, Theodore Roosevelt and his Rough Riders carried out a victorious assault on San Juan Hill in Cuba in the Spanish-American War.

In 1958, construction of the St. Lawrence Seaway was completed.

In 1966, the Medicare health program for elderly Americans went into effect.

Ten years ago: France withdrew its troops from the Command of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Five years ago: The North Vietnamese said in Paris they would release all U.S. war prisoners if American forces were withdrawn from Vietnam by the end of the year.

One year ago: U.S. Lt. General Daniel James was nominated to be chief of the North American Air Defense Command and became the first black four-star general.

Today's birthdays: Actor James Cagney is 72. Actress Leslie Caron is 45.

Thought for today: Keep an open mind and be receptive to modern ideas — Jawaharlal Nehru, Indian leader, 1889-1964.

Bicentennial footnote: 20 years ago today, the Continental Congress in Philadelphia, meeting as a committee of the whole, approved a resolution by Richard Henry Lee of Virginia calling for independence from Britain.

LAFF - A - DAY

"It's nice there's still something you can get for a penny, but I get tired of weighing myself."

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

My mother, 77, does not have specific complaints, yet she often awakes and spends the day complaining that "everything aches." Could she be putting us on?

Mrs. R.V., Ind.

Dear Mrs. V.:
It is easy to dismiss someone else's complaint of this generalized feeling of "pain all over."

At first, it may seem to have psychological overtones. But more and more doctors are realizing that there is, especially in the elderly, a condition which can only be described by them as "hurting all over."

Dr. Louis A. Healey, of the University of Washington School of Medicine, made an important contribution when he wrote about this as a specific disease of the elderly. It is called poly-myalgia rheumatica.

It seems that it occurs more frequently in women than in men and it is his observation that it occurs in people past 60.

In a recent article in The Typical complaints are pain and stiffness in the back, neck, shoulders and thighs. The pain may appear gradually or suddenly."

He said, "One woman told me that she went to bed one night feeling fine, but awoke the next morning as sore as if she had 'hoed a field of potatoes.'"

Apparently, poly-myalgia can be incapacitating. Many elderly people simply cannot get out of bed in the morning, even though the pain was absent the night before.

There are a number of tests to confirm this condition. All of these should be made on your mother before accusing her of a "put-on."

My son fractured his leg while skiing this winter. Now he wants to play soccer. Is that leg more vulnerable to injuries than before?

Mrs. W.L., Mass.

Dear Mrs. L.:
Once a fracture heals, especially in young people, the bone must be considered to be as strong and firm as before the injury.

It must be remembered that the muscles, ligaments and tendons, having been in a cast for many weeks, may be thinner and less strong than they were before.

With active and passive massage and exercise these, too, return to their normal, healthy state.

Once your son is cleared by his doctor, there is no reason why the bone should be considered more vulnerable. He should not be deprived of a healthful sport because of his injury.

Parties Fight Over Credit For Reform

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Democrats and Republicans are battling over which party will get credit for responding to the Capitol Hill payroll-sex scandal and allegations of misuse of House travel money.

Democrats devised a series of payroll and expense accounting revisions and implemented them through regulations of the House Administration Committee. Party leaders hoped to get the House Rules Committee today to block consideration of the changes by the full House.

The 145-member House Republican Conference voted Tuesday to try to force amendments to the Democratic revisions if they come before the full House. Some GOP members criticized the Democrats' revisions as a boondoggle and as laying the groundwork for slush funds.

Rep. Charles B. Wiggins, R-Calif., told his GOP colleagues, "I suggest the first thing Republicans should do is pin the problem. This is not our scandal. It is theirs."

The dispute over implementation of the Democratic revisions sparked a rare parliamentary confrontation on the House floor Tuesday.

Rep. Robert Bauman, R-Md., objected to a request by Administration Committee Chairman Frank Thompson Jr., D-N.J., to print the changes in the Congressional Record.

Three Men Appear In Court

Three more men appeared Wednesday afternoon in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court on felony charges.

Jerry L. Eggers, Columbus, pleaded not guilty to charges of aggravated burglary and grand theft.

Also appearing in the extended session of the criminal court was Arthur Donaldson, cited by the adult parole authority for violation of probation. Judge William Ammer added one more year to Donaldson's former probation sentence and ordered him committed to the county jail until July 18.

Raymond L. Reynolds, also charged with violation of probation, had his probation revoked. The violation charges were filed here when Reynolds was found guilty of a crime in Delaware County.

Earlier, the local court had placed him on probation after suspending sentences on charges of aggravated burglary, breaking and entering, grand theft and escape. The sentences reimposed Wednesday included 4-25 years on the burglary charge and three 1-5 year sentences on the other charges. All sentences are to be served at the Mansfield Reformatory.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Tell Tightwad To Pay Up

DEAR ABBY: For the past three months, I've been dating a guy I'll call Brad. He's 27 and I'm 24.

Brad has a good business, so I know he's not hurting financially. In fact, he's very well off.

Well, he is the tightest man I've ever known. Abby, he's never taken me to a really nice restaurant. It's always a quick hamburger somewhere, and his idea of an entertaining evening is going to one of his friends' apartment and watching TV.

He took me to an opera once only because someone gave him some tickets. I work and am not exactly loaded, but I find myself leaving tips at the diner, paying for parking and "lending" him a dollar or two which he never pays back.

If I ask him to pick up a pack of cigarettes for me, he'll hand them to me and say, "Gee, cigarettes have sure gone up they're 65 cents a pack." (Translation "You owe me, so pay up.")

I enjoy his company, but his stinginess irritates me. Should I continue seeing him, hoping he'll change, mention my feelings or just call it quits?

MS. F. INN.J.

DEAR MS. F.: Mention your feelings and don't pull any punches. If he cares about you, he'll make an effort to change his ways. If he doesn't who needs him?

DEAR ABBY: I am a 19-year-old single girl who is engaged to be married.

I decided to go on the birth control pill, so I got a prescription from my doctor and had it filled at the drug store near the place I work.

A few months later, I found out that the lady who works at the drug store where I got my pills had told several people (including my fiancée's relatives) that I was on the Pill!

Do you think it would do any good to report this to the manager of the drug store? I am plenty ticked off about this.

Don't tell me to confront the employee with this because she would just deny it.

TICKED OFF

Report the employee to the manager. She had no business disclosing YOUR business.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 21-year-old girl with a very complicated problem. The "Mom" and "Pop" who raised me are really my grandparents. My real mother, whom I was taught to call "Siss," wasn't married when I was born so her parents raised me as their child.

When I was three, "Sis" (my real mother) married my real father who was 26 years older than "Sis" and a family man. (I called him "Bruz." Sis had gone to work for him right out of secretarial school. It took Bruz three years to get a divorce and marry Sis.

Soon after they were married, they adopted a new-born baby girl because Sis wasn't able to have children. They told everybody this child was their own. She is nearly 18 now and doesn't know she's adopted. Me, their very own blood child, they don't even claim!

That's not all. Two months ago Bruz dropped dead of a heart attack. He was worth a lot of money. I got nothing, but his adopted daughter is sitting pretty with a big trust fund. This is all true. My aunt told me.

Don't you think I'm entitled to something? And how can I get it? Both my grandparents are in a rest home now, completely off their rockers.

FEELS CHEATED

DEAR FEELS: I am not qualified to give you legal advice, which is what you need. Engage a lawyer. You could have a good case.

Miss Karen J. Wolford Weds Robin A. Steely In Outdoor Ceremony

MR. AND MRS. ROBIN ANDREW STEELY

In an outdoor ceremony at Gold Cliff Park, Miss Karen Jane Wolford and Mr. Robin Andrew Steely exchanged wedding vows 7:30 p.m., June 26.

The Rev. Marion Nansel performed the double ring ceremony for the daughter of Mrs. Dorothy J. Wolford, 201½ Logan St., and the son of Mrs. JoAnne Rittinger, 2125 Chippewa Drive, Logan Elm Village.

The bride was given in marriage by her mother. For her wedding she selected a full length off-white princess style gown with short sleeves. The high collar in the back came into a V-neckline on the lace bodice with a ruffle at the waistline. She carried a bouquet of yellow and light pink roses with baby's breath. Her headpiece was a half-crown with two ribbon streamers tied with flowers.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Pam Proctor in a long green dress changing to deeper shades down to the hemline. Her bouquet was of yellow and white summer flowers and baby's breath.

Miss Heather Marie Proctor, daughter of Mrs. Pam Proctor, was flower girl. Ring bearer was Master Jonathan McMahon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Phil McMahon.

Mr. Haye R. Woodward, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, served as best man.

Cocaine Couriers Often Tying With Death

MIAMI (AP) — In a Bogota, Colombia, hotel room, a Cincinnati woman dismantled her portable hairdryer and replaced its electric motor with three pounds of carefully packed cocaine.

Then she caught a plane for Miami. The woman, arrested by U.S. Customs Service inspectors at busy Miami International Airport, was what authorities call a mule — the amateur or professional who carries drugs into this country via commercial transportation to help supply a $3 billion-a-year U.S. market for illegal drugs.

Miami is the nation's cocaine import capital, where the most seizures and arrests of mules are made. Of the 735 pounds of cocaine seized in the United States last year, 198 pounds or 27 per cent of it was taken at Miami's airport.

It's anybody's guess how much cocaine slips through undetected here and elsewhere.

Just last month, 170 pounds of cocaine were confiscated by Customs agents in Tampa who were watching a banana boat which had arrived from Colombia. Agents said the cache was worth $39 million, one of the largest seizures on record.

"Drug imports, mostly cocaine, are on the increase," said Howard Ford, director of Customs' airport operations in Miami. "We have no estimate on how much is getting by, but we could make more seizures if we had more personnel."

In the first five months of this year, Customs inspectors at Miami International confiscated 166 pounds of cocaine, a powerful stimulant which drug experts say is not physically addictive. Cocaine, made from the leaves of the coca bush, is often called the "Champagne of Drugs," because of its high market price and popularity among some rock musicians and jetsetters.

"Every conceivable way to smuggle drugs has been tried," said Bill Norworthy, an airport supervisor for the federal Drug Enforcement Administration, whose agents take over investigations after the initial arrest.

Mules have carried drugs inside fishing rods, aerosol cans, book covers, tennis racquets, false-bottomed suitcases, diving tanks and children's toys. They have carried liquified cocaine in seemingly unopened liquor bottles.

More dangerously, mules have tried to avoid detection by swallowing packets of cocaine or inserting them into body cavities.

In the last two months, four mules have died when their body acids destroyed the packets and released the drug into their system, Customs spokesman Jim Dingfelder said.

But the lure of great profit attracts many willing to take the risks.

Most of the cocaine smuggled into

New Man's Mag Slated

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Chic, a new men's magazine, will be published in September by Larry C. Flynt, editor and publisher of Hustler.

The new full color publication will be based in Los Angeles and edited by Jean-Louis Ginibre, a former coeditor of Oui in America. James Baes, a photographer for Cinema and Oui in America, will be photo director.

Flynt publishes and edits two-year-old Hustler, another men's magazine that has soared from a paid circulation of 160,000 in July 1974 to over a million. It features candid erotic pictures of men and women.

"My decision to start Chic was based on my belief that readers of men's magazines want to read more than one good magazine a month," said Flynt, 34. "There is plenty of room for competition in the erotic entertainment business and I want even my competition to be the best possible, so I am creating my own."

Chic will cost $1.95 an issue, the same as Hustler. Flynt plans a first run of a million copies.

the United States comes from Colombia and Peru. Persons agreeing to serve as mules can earn $5,000 aside from an expenses-paid trip for several days to South America.

Those who hire the mules are playing for bigger stakes. A $10,000 investment for 97 per cent pure cocaine can be multiplied 32 times — returning $320,000 — after it has been transported and its purity reduced to about 12 per cent for street sales, a drug official said.

Cocaine users who sniff or "snort" are known as "vacuum cleaners." Others cook a small portion of the drug in a small spoon and inject it into their bloodstreams.

Customs inspectors and DEA agents say there is no stereotype for a mule. Drugs have been found on the young and old, affluent and poor, businessman and diplomat.

Officials say that arrested mules most often show little remorse or fear of prison sentences.

"Once they are caught, they accept it," said Customs inspector John Ryan. "And they seem to be well informed about what will happen to them. One man I caught wasn't a bit alarmed and said he was confident of his chances under the judicial system."

Detection is not an easy chore. At Miami International, 1½ million passengers pass through Customs checks each year — it takes an alert inspector to spot a mule and convince a superior to allow a detailed search. Inspector Dale O'Connor noticed that a passenger carrying two air tanks used by divers was carrying no other diving equipment and didn't have a tan.

"He was very friendly and even helped me open the tanks. They were filled with drugs," O'Connor said.

Another inspector, Chuck Winwood, recalls a stranger case. "One of our men noticed that the padding on the wheelchair used by a deformed midget was thicker than other wheelchairs. When we inspected the chair's padding, it was filled with cocaine."

Inspectors and DEA agents listed these recent cases:

—Scott Wirkus, 17, of Racine, Wisc., died in an airport hotel shortly after he passed Customs without incident. He had swallowed 53 coke-filled rophylactics. Some of them burst.

—A coat worn by Carmen Rosa Benvenuto, 32, of Lima, Peru, appeared to sag. Plastic bags of cocaine were found sewn in the lining. On the same flight from Lima were five other mules. Roberto Gueudet, 57, and his 42-year-old wife, Doris, had cocaine in their luggage. So did Maria Jose Santos, 27, Rosa Mouchard, 55, and Ida Olascoaga, 51. They were all caught carrying a total of 47 pounds of illegal drugs.

—A 63-year-old retired Bogota nurse,

Maria del Carmen de Garzon, was arrested when she arrived from Colombia. In a false-bottom suitcase inspectors found 2½ pounds of cocaine.

—Sonia Moya, a 32-year-old Cuban refugee living in Miami, returned from South America on her birthday. Inspectors wished her a "Happy Birthday" but held her for DEA because of four pounds of coke she had in her packed clothing.

"The mule is the beginning for DEA," said Irv Weinstein, the agency's assistant regional director. "Customs makes the seizures. From there, we make our investigation ... to bring in the conspirators."

Cocaine Couriers Often Toying With Death

MIAMI (AP) — In a Bogota, Colombia, hotel room, a Cincinnati woman dismantled her portable hairdryer and replaced its electric motor with three pounds of carefully packed cocaine.

Then she caught a plane for Miami. The woman, arrested by U.S. Customs Service inspectors at busy Miami International Airport, was what authorities call a mule — the amateur or professional who carries drugs into this country via commercial transportation to help supply a $3 billion-a-year U.S. market for illegal drugs.

Miami is the nation's cocaine import capital, where the most seizures and arrests of mules are made. Of the 735 pounds of cocaine seized in the United States last year, 198 pounds or 27 per cent of it was taken at Miami's airport. It's anybody's guess how much cocaine slips through undetected here and elsewhere.

Just last month, 170 pounds of cocaine were confiscated by Customs agents in Tampa who were watching a banana boat which had arrived from Colombia. Agents said the cache was worth $39 million, one of the largest seizures on record.

"Drug imports, mostly cocaine, are on the increase," said Howard Ford, director of Customs' airport operations in Miami. "We have no estimate on how much is getting by, but we could make more seizures if we had more personnel."

In the first five months of this year, Customs inspectors at Miami International confiscated 166 pounds of cocaine, a powerful stimulant which drug experts say is not physically addictive. Cocaine, made from the leaves of the coca bush, is often called the "Champagne of Drugs," because of its high market price and popularity among some rock musicians and jetsetters.

"Every conceivable way to smuggle drugs has been tried," said Bill Nor-sworthy, an airport supervisor for the federal Drug Enforcement Administration, whose agents take over investigations after the initial arrest.

Mules have carried drugs inside fishing rods, aerosol cans, book covers, tennis racquets, false-bottomed suitcases, diving tanks and children's toys. They have carried liquified cocaine in seemingly unopened liquor bottles.

More dangerously, mules have tried to avoid detection by swallowing packets of cocaine or inserting them into body cavities.

In the last two months, four mules have died when their body acids destroyed the packets and released the drug into their system, Customs spokesman Jim Dingfelder said.

But the lure of great profit attracts many willing to take the risks.

Most of the cocaine smuggled into

New Man's Mag Slated

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Chic, a new men's magazine, will be published in September by Larry C. Flynt, editor and publisher of Hustler.

The new full color publication will be based in Los Angeles and edited by Jean-Louis Ginibre, a former coeditor of Oui in America. James Baes, a photographer for Cinema and Oui in America, will be photo director.

Flynt publishes and edits two-year-old Hustler, another men's magazine that has soared from a paid circulation of 160,000 in July 1974 to over a million. It features candid erotic pictures of men and women.

"My decision to start Chic was based on my belief that readers of men's magazines want to read more than one good magazine a month," said Flynt, 34. "There is plenty of room for competition in the erotic entertainment business and I want even my competition to be the best possible, so I am creating my own."

Chic will cost $1.95 an issue, the same as Hustler. Flynt plans a first run of a million copies.

the United States comes from Colombia and Peru. Persons agreeing to serve as mules can earn $5,000 aside from an expenses-paid trip for several days to South America.

Those who hire the mules are playing for bigger stakes. A $10,000 investment for 97 per cent pure cocaine can be multiplied 32 times — returning $320,000 — after it has been transported and its purity reduced to about 12 per cent for street sales, a drug official said.

Cocaine users who sniff or "snort" are known as "vacuum cleaners." Others cook a small portion of drug in a small spoon and inject it into their bloodstreams.

Customs inspectors and DEA agents say there is no stereotype for a mule. Drugs have been found on the young and old, affluent and poor, businessman and diplomat.

Officials say that arrested mules

AT BOOKS IN THE CHILDREN'S LIBRARY

You will see lots of shiny new books on display when you visit the Children's Room this week. Whether you prefer the world of make-believe or reality, romance or science, you're quite likely to encounter something fun for you on our shelves.

New health books include "Let's Do Yoga" and "About Your Heart." Designed for young children, both books have simple texts and plenty of instructive illustrations.

The young mechanics in town won't want to miss "Joe Kaufman's What Makes It Go?" Although the book is designed for the elementary level, older people will also enjoy reading this introduction to the mechanics of nearly ninety appliances, machines, and vehicles.

If you have an interest in U.S. history, come by soon to inspect our assortment of new historical titles. "The Salem Witchcraft Delusion, 1692" discusses the social and religious climate that led to the Salem witch hunts and describes the trials and their aftermath.

Beginning readers will laugh as they read about a colonial post rider's escapades in "The Remarkable Ride of Israel Bissell ... as Related by Molly the Crow."

Slightly older history buffs will find it easy to immerse themselves in "Spies and Traitors: Tales of the Revolutionary and Civil Wars." Then find out about contemporary American spying by reading "The FBI and the CIA: Secret Agents and American Democracy."

Do you like true stories about Indians? "American Indian Women" profiles eighteen outstanding women of the past and present. "Wounded Knee, an Indian History of the American West" is written by the author of the adult version, "Bury My Heart at Wounded Knee." Guaranteed to hold your interest is "Taken by the Indians," a collection of six true stories of whites who were captured by the Indians. Much of the text is taken from diaries of the victims.

If you enjoy pioneers and Indians and like to make things, you'll find plenty of new ideas in "Totems, Decoys, and Covered Wagons." Make your own forts, log cabins and old-fashioned toys with cardboard and this book's instructions!

Want to relax with some fiction? "Buzz, buzz, buzz" and "Harry Is a Scaredy-Cat" are our two newest picture books. Both have large colorful illustrations and can be understood with or without their accompanying texts.

"The Smartest Bear and His Brother Oliver" deals with a twin's attempt to establish his individuality. Third graders can read this alone, but younger children will enjoy the pictures as someone reads it to them.

A book about twins that fourth and fifth graders should enjoy is "My Twin Sister Erika," a humorous, sometimes poignant story about the benefits and drawbacks of having a look-alike sister.

For pure escapism read "Jacob Two-Two Meets the Hooded Fang." Unjustly imprisoned, Jacob and 200 other innocent children must bear the punishments of the Hooded Fang as they wait for help from Child Power!

Hays To Head Holiday Festival

STRATTON, Ohio (AP) — Rep. Wayne L. Hays is scheduled to come out sculcison in his farm home near Belmont Friday to officiate at Bicentennial ceremonies in this Jefferson County village.

Mayor Fred Abdalla said the congressman will present a flag and certificate recognizing Stratton officially as a Bicentennial community. Ceremonies are scheduled at 2 p.m. in front of the Municipal Building.

Hays, central figure in the congressional payroll sex scandal, has been recuperating at his farm since being released from Barnesville Hospital, where he spent 10 days after taking an overdose of sleeping pills.

Use Of Food As Weapon Attacked

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Planning Association said today that the use of U.S. food exports as a weapon "for short-term political advantage" should be rejected and that the government should adopt policies aimed at protecting American farmers and consumers as well as serving the needs of foreign buyers.

"The interest in and need for rational trade policies affecting agricultural commodities go far beyond the specific concerns of food producers and consumers," the association said in a policy statement. "But the interests of producers and consumers should not be sacrificed arbitrarily to satisfy foreign policy or general economic goals."

Drafted by the association's agricultural committee, the statement said that a national food and agricultural policy should be set up to "moderate fluctuations in the supplies and prices" of grain, including annual national production targets, a commodity loan and purchase program operated in conjunction with a grain reserve system, and a comprehensive study of the U.S. farm export system.

"We reject proposals aimed at gaining short-term political advantage by using food shipments as a weapon to gain other ends — whether this be done through embargoes or through the offering of sales at concessionary prices," the panel said.

The 42-year-old association describes itself as "nonprofit, non-political" and includes representatives of agriculture, business, labor and the professional sector.

A son, Jeremy Lee, was born in Berger Hospital, June 22 to Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Lee Parker of Laurelville. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Barnhart and Charles (Gene) Parker, all of Whisler. Mrs. Mildred Bigham is the paternal great grandmother.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mann of Sherman St. are parents of a son born June 17. He has been named Ryan Patrick.

Notice to all girls and boys who want to enter the Miss Old Time Festival, the Little Miss and Little Mister Old Time Festival, or the Junior Miss and Mister Old Time Festival contests at the Laurelville Firemen's Old Time Festival to be held July 14, 15, 16, 17. Get your entry blanks now at The Village Set, Dave's Barber Shop in Laurelville, Weaver's Grocery in South Bloomingville, Junior and Rozella's Grocery in South Perry or from Mrs. Marlene Thompson or Mrs. Joyce Newman who are the co-chairman of the contests.

Entry blanks must be turned in to any of the named locations above by July 9. The contest for Little Miss and Little Mister Old Time Festival and for Junior Miss and Mister Old Time Festival will be held on July 14 at 7 p.m. The contest of Miss Old Time Festival will be an event of July 15, at 7 p.m.

Contestants in the Little Miss and Little Mister group must be ages three through five as of July 1. Contestants in the Junior group must be ages six through eight as of July 1.

Those young ladies entering the Miss Old Time Festival contest must be enrolled in grades 9, 10, 11, 12, for the coming 1976-1977 school year.

All contestants must be residents of the Laurelville Fire District which consists of Laurelville Village, Perry Township, Benton Township and Salt Creek Township in Hocking County.

Mr. and Mrs. Dean Sells spent most of last week traveling and relaxing in some of the eastern states. In the Pennsylvania Dutch country the cross-country Bicentennial wagon train was also wending it's way toward Philadelphia. Mr. and Mrs. Sells continued through the City of Brotherly Love on to Atlantic City, N. J. where they spent time enjoying the boardwalk and the beach. Upon leaving there they traveled through the farmland and mountains of Pennsylvania, Maryland and West Virginia as they returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. Greg Fischer and Mr. and Mrs. Russell Good of Lancaster, Mr. and Mrs. Rupert Welliver and family of Circleville and Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Poling of Laurelville enjoyed a picnic at Rising Park, Lancaster, on Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Biery (Janet Reid) and sons David and Derrin and 28-day-old daughter, Karen Elizabeth of near Rawson, spent Sunday with Janet's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Reid. They also visited Janet's grandmother, Mrs. Elizabeth Edwards so she could see her newest great grandchild and namesake.

While in Lancaster the other day, I enjoyed a visit with a friend of bygone days, Mrs. Dorothy Thompson Sharp, her husband Wayne, their daughter Marilyn Jo and their grandson Terry. The Sharps, former Laurelville residents, lived for a number of years in Zanesville where Wayne was employed. They moved to Lancaster after he retired. Dorothy, whom I hadn't seen for 24 years, and I reminisced about the days before she was married and worked in the old Simon White Grocery for $2 or $2.50 a week and I didn't even make that much baby-sitting.

Wayne and Dorothy had just returned home on Saturday from a weeks trip through the Smoky Mountains with their son John, his wife Linda and two of their children. Marilyn and Terry had spent the week with Wayne's sister, Lennie and her husband of Middleport.

Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Hartsaugh were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith of Charleston, W. Va. and Mr. and Mrs. Philip Frederick of Columbus. The Hartsaugh's son-in-law and daughter, Vic and Alice Pontious of Amanda are in Atlanta, Ga. this week attending a convention.

Mr. and Mrs. Merwin McClelland and I. J. Kohler have returned home from Curtis, Mich. where they spent their vacation at their cottage.

John A. Bingham, 1815-1900, a native of Cadiz, Ohio, congressman and later minister to Japan, played important roles in the prosecution of the assassins of President Lincoln as well as the impeachment of President Johnson.

Miss Quinlan Still Breathes On Her Own

MORRIS PLAINS, N.J. (AP) — Karen Anne Quinlan couldn't survive without a respirator, said the physicians who testified last fall at her "death with dignity" trial, but five weeks after the machine was disconnected she was still holding her own.

"She remains stable," Stephan Hansbury, assistant administrator of the Morris View Nursing Home, said Tuesday. "There has been no change in her condition."

The comatose Miss Quinlan was transferred to the county-operated facility June 9 from St. Clare's Hospital in nearby Denville, where she was admitted April 15, 1975, suffering from the effects of tranquilizers and liquor.

Doctors put her on the respirator almost immediately when her breathing began to fail.

Miss Quinlan's appearance has been variously described during the past year.

At the week-long trial last October, physicians described her as contorted, emaciated and in a chronic and vegetative state. One neurologist said she was "too grotesque to be described."

But people who have seen her recently say she looks much like a normal 22-year-old woman except for tubes running into her nose and throat for feeding and removing wastes.

Her parents, Joseph and Julia Quinlan, first asked doctors to disconnect the respirator last July 31 and, when they refused, asked a judge of the Superior Court to order it turned off.

Del Corso Selected For State Panel

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Sylvester T. DelCorso, who was adjutant general when four Kent State University students were shot to death during a 1970 campus confrontation with National Guardsmen, has been appointed to the Fire Marshal Advisory Council.

The appointment was made by Gov. James A. Rhodes, under whom DelCorso served as adjutant general. DelCorso, 64, of Worthington, succeeds Edward L. Hughes, who resigned from the council June 3.

Rhodes also appointed Raymond C. W. Peterson, 63, of Toledo, to the University of Toledo board of trustees and Charles R. Brading, 41, of Wapakoneta, to the State Board of Pharmacy.

Farm Equipment Costs Still Rise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although some items farmers buy to help produce the nation's food and fiber are less expensive than they were a year or two ago, tractors and most other machinery are continuing to cost more.

The Agriculture Department, which periodically publishes cost figures for various items used by farmers and their families, says that June 15 prices of tractors and other self-propelled machines such as combines were up four per cent from March 15 when they were last surveyed.

No average dollar figures for large machinery were included in USDA's monthly "agricultural prices" report issued this week but it said that the overall price index of those items was up 11 per cent from June 15 of last year.

The department keeps track of the prices farmers pay out in several ways, including separate indexes for items needed for production and for family living.

As of mid-June, the production index was up 1.5 per cent from May 15 and stood seven per cent higher than on June 15, 1975. The prices farmers pay for family living expenses were up one-half of one per cent during the month and were five per cent above a year earlier.

Tractors and other machinery are included in the price index for production items. But it also includes the costs of feed and feeder livestock, items that are produced by other farmers and ranchers.

In the case of feeder livestock last month, the price index was down four per cent from May 15. The feed price index was up six per cent during the month, but included a substantial drop in hay prices.

The price index of family living items — which includes things bought by most consumers, whether on the farm or in cities — was up one-half of one per cent from May 15, including gains for food, automobiles and some items of clothing.

Some hardware items have declined appreciably the past year or so. A spool of barbed wire this spring averaged $26.80 against $28.60 a year earlier, and steel posts were down 11 cents to $2.25 each, the report said.

But staples, pitchforks, hoes, wire screen and some other items cost more now than they did a year ago.

One of the biggest price declines was for hay bales, down from $31.70 per 100-pound bale a year ago to $15.50 by late spring, the report showed.

Clothing has continued to go up, with men's over-alls costing $12.20 each against $11.50 a year ago; work shirts $6.73 compared with $6.32; and work shoes $20.80 against $18.90 a pair a year ago.

SAFETY SPEAKING WINNERS — The 1976 4-H Safety Speaking Contest was a great success this year, with many more senior contestants than ever before. Kim Strous, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ned Strous, 11339 Spangler Road, Circleville, and Jeff Karshner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Karshner, Route 2, Mt. Sterling, are the winners of the Senior Division (left picture). Dee Ann Hott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Hott, Route 1, New Holland, and Matt Mills, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mills, 8655 Tarlton Road, Circleville, are the winners of the Junior Division. Kim and Jeff will participate in the area contest on July 15 in Washington C.H. The winners from the 10-county area contest will participate in the state contest during the Ohio State Fair. The winners of the state contest will travel to Chicago in December to National Club Congress. The Safety Speaking Contest is just one more example of the opportunities offered to the members of Pickaway County 4-H clubs.

Record Ohio Corn Crop Seen

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio farmers are expected to harvest an all-time high 3.9 million acres of corn this fall, according to the U.S. Agriculture Department's Crop Reporting Service.

Panel Probes Teamsters

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Labor Committee wants to question Labor Secretary W.J. Usery Jr. about his department's investigation of the Teamsters union, whose leadership Usery recently praised.

Committee Chairman Harrison A. Williams, D-N.J., and ranking minority member Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., scheduled today's hearing to "monitor and assess" the work of the investigation, which is focused on the Teamsters' Central States Pension fund.

Sources on the committee said panel members were disturbed by Usery's remarks at the Teamsters convention in Las Vegas two weeks ago when he praised union leaders for "doing an outstanding job in representing their members."

Usery has insisted his speech to the convention won't affect the government's investigation.

Also scheduled to testify before the committee were James D. Hutchinson, the Labor Department official heading the Teamsters probe, and an official of the Justice Department, which is assisting.

Portions of Usery's testimony dealing with specifics of the probe were expected to be given in a closed executive session.

per cent increase over the previous record in 1974 and 12 per cent above last year's harvested acreage.

And the service said the state's combined harvested acreage of corn, soybeans, wheat, oats and hay is expected to total 10.5 million acres, a slight increase over the 10.4 million acres harvested in 1975.

Soybean acreage is estimated at 2.88 million acres, about 220,000 acres below last year and 20 per cent under the 1973 record of 3.59 million acres.

The service said the wheat crop is expected to total 1.55 million acres, a 7 per cent decrease due to reduced plantings and increased abandonment because of winter damage.

Harvested acreage of oats is expected to total 520,000 acres, 20,000 acres above last year, and hay acreage is estimated at 1.5 million acres, a 2 per cent decline, the service reported.

Nationally, farmers are expected to harvest 72.4 million acres of corn, up 8 per cent from 1975 and the most since 1949.

If yields are good, the crop could be the largest on record and provide abundant animal feed to help dampen consumer food prices through next year.

The 1976 soybean production will come from 48.2 million harvested acres, down 10 per cent from last year's 53.6 million acres.

Last year, when farmers harvested a record corn crop of about 5.78 billion bushels it came from 66.9 million acres. A survey made this spring of farmers' planting intentions indicated that about 71.7 million acres of 1976 corn would be harvested.

Based on the earlier information and on assumptions that farmers would get normal weather during the growing season, the agriculture department has projected a record 1976 corn harvest of around 6.4 billion bushels.

As livestock feed, corn is the most important U.S. grain for production of meat, poultry and dairy products for consumer tables. Soybeans provide highprotein ingredients for livestock feed. Both crops are valuable as exports to other countries, including the Soviet Union, Japan and Western Europe.

As a result of last year's record grain crops, farmers have stepped up livestock production — including plans for a substantial boost in pork by fall — and the food price spiral of recent years has eased.

Department experts say that retail food prices may average two to five per cent higher this year, depending on the final outcome of grain harvests. In 1975, those rose an average of 8.5 per cent and in each of the two previously years soared 14.5 per cent.

If the huge 1976 corn crop materializes as USDA has indicated, it would help slow down consumer food price increases through 1977.

Ohio Groups In Festival

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Four Ohio groups will participate in Fourth of July bicentennial festivities in Philadelphia, Pa.

The Athens and Dover high school marching bands along with the Central Ohio Brigade and the 9-13th Virginia Regiment, both military re-enactment groups, have been invited to the city of the signing of the Declaration of Independence, an event that set in motion the 200-year gestation of the United States bicentennial celebration.

The Ohio organizations will join those from the other 49 states in Philadelphia for a celebration which has assumed a representative nature for the nation as a whole because of that city's central role in the revolution.

But despite that assumed role, the activities there have no more significance for the nation than do parades and celebrations anywhere else, said Dr. Michael J. Devine, administrator of the Ohio American Revolution Bicentennial Advisory Commission.

Hold Cabbie In Slaying

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — A taxi driver has been charged with first-degree murder in the stabbing death of a young woman whose body was found by snakehunters last Sunday.

Orange County Sheriff Melvin Colman said William L. Leslie Jr., 29, of Sanford in neighboring Seminole County, was arrested Wednesday in the death of Michele Tanasy, 18.

Colman described Leslie, who was being held without bond, as a rejected suitor of Miss Tanasy.

The sheriff said Miss Tanasy had moved from Toledo, Ohio, to Sanford three weeks ago to live with relatives and had been befriended by Leslie. Colman said witnesses saw the two together last Saturday.

Medical examiners say she was probably slain that day. Her body was found near the community of Kelly Park, north of Orlando.

SAFETY SPEAKING WINNERS — The 1976 4-H Safety Speaking Contest was a great success this year, with many more senior contestants than ever before. Kim Strous, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ned Strous, 11339 Spangler Road, Circleville, and Jeff Karshner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Karshner, Route 2, Mt. Sterling, are the winners of the Senior Division (left picture). Dee Ann Hott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Hott, Route 1, New Holland, and Matt Mills, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mills, 8655 Tarlton Road, Circleville, are the winners of the Junior Division. Kim and Jeff will participate in the area contest on July 15 in Washington C.H. The winners from the 10-county area contest will participate in the state contest during the Ohio State Fair. The winners of the state contest will travel to Chicago in December to National Club Congress. The Safety Speaking Contest is just one more example of the opportunities offered to the members of Pickaway County 4-H clubs.

Record Ohio Corn Crop Seen

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio farmers are expected to harvest an all-time high 3.9 million acres of corn this fall, according to the U.S. Agriculture Department's Crop Reporting Service. The projected acreage would be a 7 per cent increase over the previous record in 1974 and 12 per cent above last year's harvested acreage.

And the service said the state's combined harvested acreage of corn, soybeans, wheat, oats and hay is expected to total 10.5 million acres, a slight increase over the 10.4 million acres harvested in 1975.

Soybean acreage is estimated at 2.88 million acres, about 220,000 acres below last year and 20 per cent under the 1973 record of 3.59 million acres.

The service said the wheat crop is expected to total 1.55 million acres, a 7 per cent decrease due to reduced plantings and increased abandonment because of winter damage.

Harvested acreage of oats is expected to total 520,000 acres, 20,000 acres above last year, and hay acreage is estimated at 1.5 million acres, a 2 per cent decline, the service reported.

Nationally, farmers are expected to harvest 72.4 million acres of corn, up 8 per cent from 1975 and the most since 1949.

If yields are good, the crop could be the largest on record and provide abundant animal feed to help dampen consumer food prices through next year.

The 1976 soybean production will come from 48.2 million harvested acres, down 10 per cent from last year's 53.6 million acres.

Last year, when farmers harvested a record corn crop of about 5.78 billion bushels it came from 66.9 million acres. A survey made this spring of farmers' planting intentions indicated that about 71.7 million acres of 1976 corn would be harvested.

Based on the earlier information and on assumptions that farmers would get normal weather during the growing season, the agriculture department has projected a record 1976 corn harvest of around 6.4 billion bushels.

As livestock feed, corn is the most important U.S. grain for production of meat, poultry and dairy products for consumer tables. Soybeans provide highprotein ingredients for livestock feed. Both crops are valuable as exports to other countries, including the Soviet Union, Japan and Western Europe.

Panel Probes Teamsters

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Labor Committee wants to question Labor Secretary W.J. Usery Jr. about his department's investigation of the Teamsters union, whose leadership Usery recently praised.

Committee Chairman Harrison A. Williams, D-N.J., and ranking minority member Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., scheduled today's hearing to "monitor and assess" the work of the investigation, which is focused on the Teamsters' Central States Pension fund.

Sources on the committee said panel members were disturbed by Usery's remarks at the Teamsters convention in Las Vegas two weeks ago when he praised union leaders for "doing an outstanding job in representing their members."

Usery has insisted his speech to the convention won't affect the government's investigation.

Also scheduled to testify before the committee were James D. Hutchinson, the Labor Department official heading the Teamsters probe, and an official of the Justice Department, which is assisting.

Portions of Usery's testimony dealing with specifics of the probe were expected to be given in a closed executive session.

Girl With New Face Has Homecoming

LA GRANDE, Ore. (AP) — Ida Hays' plane was an hour and a half late, but 200 people still were waiting when she arrived in her hometown wearing a tired smile on her new face.

The 15-year-old girl, whose badly deformed features were repaired by 10 hours of complicated surgery last month in New York, seemed to not quite believe the greeting she received in this town of some 10, 400 people Tuesday.

A police car met her at the city limits and, lights flashing, escorted her to the middle of town. Families stood on the sidewalks and hollered "Hello."

One young, long-haired boy shouted, "Hi, Ida. What's happening?"

"I liked it," Ida said of her welcome, but she added, "I was kind of embarrassed."

Gun Charges Filed Against Local Man

A Circleville man has been charged with two gun-related offenses by Circleville Police.

Robert N. Young, 52, 364 Walnut St., was to appear in Circleville Municipal Court Thursday morning on charges of possession of a firearm while intoxicated and endangering his family.

Police Ptl. Joe Stevenson and Ptl. Howard Fletcher were summoned to Young's home to find him on the front porch with a .12 gauge shotgun. The officers had been told that the weapon was loaded.

Young, according to the officers, fled into his home. Ptl. Stevenson followed the man inside while Ptl. Fletcher remained outside to back him up.

Ptl. Stevenson arrested Young in the bedroom of the home. The weapon and shells were found there.

Battery Cable Causes Blaze

A semi truck, hauling steel plates from Youngstown to Chillicothe, developed a minor fire in its engine 9:23 a.m. Wednesday, according to Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputies.

The incident occurred on Route 207 at the Hornbeck-Gaver Road intersection of Atlanta.

The blaze, which was quickly extinguished, was blamed on a short in a battery cable.

Her grandmother, Alia Bellus, marveled at her granddaughter's lack of bitterness despite years of cruelty and taunting.

"She'd say, 'They don't understand, Grandma, they don't understand,'" Mrs. Bellus recalled.

And her other grandmother, Mary Wilcox, remembered, "She used to be alone a lot, but I'll bet she'll never be alone again."

Ida had surgery May 19 at New York University Hospital. Surgeons moved her eyes more than an inch closer together, removed the deformed bone and used bone taken from her hip to mold her face into shape. Her brain had to be lifted to make room for the surgeons to work. She lost 16 pounds while in New York.

Scars left by the operation were already fading as Ida returned to the welcome attended by many who had contributed money to help pay for the young girl's surgery.

La Grande Mayor Roesch Fitzgerald greeted her, and local beauty queens presented her with flowers. Warren Curry, an announcer for radio station KLBH here, arranged the greeting on a few hours notice.

Ida and her mother, Jacquie, who had stayed in New York with her only child throughout the operation and recovery period, stepped off the plane in Pendleton after a 10½-hour trip delayed by engine trouble and several changes of planes.

Still, Ida's exuberance exploded when she saw her grandparents there to greet her. She said over the roar of the jet engines that she was very tired. "I haven't slept for two nights," Ida said. "I couldn't."

Mrs. Wilcox and Mrs. Bellus and grandfather Leslie Bellus were at the airport to meet her before their 52-mile car trip home.

Just before she climbed into the car, Ida grabbed her mother for one more hug.

"We did it," she cried.

The love affair between the people of La Grande and the girl has blossomed since word got out of her decision to undergo the risky surgery.

Ida's orthodontist, Dr. Dennis Turner of La Grande, said about $10,000 has been collected from residents around La Grande and from people who heard of Ida's story in news accounts.

Ida says she plans to answer "every one" of the more than 500 letters she received here and in New York.

Amish, Non-Amish Seek Cooperation

FREDERICKSBURG, Ohio (AP) — The talk of prosperity in this tiny Wayne County village is connected to the willingness of the Amish and non-Amish population to work together.

The 651 residents in this quiet community in northeastern Ohio include a mixture of traditional Amish families and those who have adopted modern ways.

"I left here eight years ago thinking Fredericksburg was a dump," said Wayne Hersherberger, 32. He left the Amish church, though some of his relatives here remain members.

"But now I sense growth, a rebirth," Hersherberger said. "I feel there is a lot of interest in what's happening in this town."

One change is that some Amish families have joined local commercial life with the "English," as they call non-Amish people.

Some Amish men are carpenters in town and some Amish women work in light industry in Wayne or Holmes County.

church, he decided to learn to drive and managed a car dealership for several years.

"I told dad I was going to get a car and then put it away after a few years," Hersherberger said. "I never did."

Hersherberger said the Amish are not impressed or interested in such pursuits. "They can't understand why I want all these things. I could return to the church of my parents, but I'm sure it will never happen."

Some of the Amish here retain their religion while adopting modern methods. Fannie and Eli Hostetter operate a general store in town and have received permission from their Amish bishop to use electricity at work.

"There are a few in our church...who would like to see me leave the store," Hostetter said. "But I asked the bishops' advice and they said if you stay honest and are not tempted to cheat, it's all right. With love, we've worked it out."

"This community is different from any other, I think," Hostetter said. "The people aren't just customers, they're friends. For me that's what makes business good."

The difference in cultures has affected the Hostetter family. Eli's brother, Dan, left the church in 1946, traveled around the country and then returned. But Dan says his lifestyle has little effect on his position in the community.

"There is no distinction between Amish and ex-Amish," Dan said. "We're all people."

A low pressure system centered over Lake Huron was giving Ohio cloudy skies and cooler temperatures today.

Along with the cloudiness, Ohio was expected to have continuing showers and thundershowers today with the greatest likelihood in the north over Lake Erie.

The shower activity is expected to ease somewhat tonight and Friday and skies should clear Friday, bringing slightly warmer temperatures.

Highs today were generally expected to be in the 70s with lows tonight falling into the 50s. Readings Friday should improve to the upper 70s or low 80s.

Dee E. Johnson and Michael E. O'Conner have received certificates for completing special courses at General Telephone Co. of Ohio's technical training school in Marion.

Johnson, 375 Clark Drive, a service representative, completed a course in contact service orders.

The course covers phases of business office routine including voice training, basic service and equipment, and handling customer requests.

Johnson has been with the company three years and works in the company's Circleville district.

O'Conner, 1770 Sioux Drive, a central office equipment installer, completed a course in basic electronics.

This two-week course covers fundamental theory of amplifiers, power supplies and other radio and common electronic equipment.

O'Conner has been with the company for five years and works in various exchanges in the company's Circleville district.

The courses, several of more than 90 provided by the technical training school headquartered in Marion, are part of General's plan for continual education of employees to keep pace with telephone developments.

Local Firm Incorporates

Articles of incorporation have been filed in Columbus with Secretary of State Ted W. Brown by Circle City Builders, Inc., James F. Mapes Jr., and Thomas Pritchard.

Agent is James F. Mapes Jr., 185 Island Road, and the articles were filed by Adkins and Bennington, 149 W. Franklin St.

The judges who will eventually decide the fate of three of the loveliest of the 22 will also dine with the contestants and their hosts. Following dinner, the girls will be taken to the beginning of the parade route where the traditional Miss Fourth of July Parade will begin at 7 p.m. Judging will follow at Community Park.

Relinquishing her title as Miss Fourth of July 1975 will be Miss Barbara Dowd. Miss Dowd was attended last year by Miss Leigh Hritz and Miss Debbie Young.

In addition to the honor of reigning over the Fourth of July festivities, the queen will also receive a $100 cash gift from the Ashville Community Club which annually sponsors the contest, a large trophy and a $20 gift certificate from the Deb Shop in Circleville. First runner-up will receive $35 in cash and the second runner-up will receive $20.

All floats must be on Park Street in parade line-up by 5:45 p.m. Friday as they will be judged at 6 p.m. Winners will not be announced until Monday morning. Cash prizes will be awarded to all parade winners following Monday's parade.

Padres Outlast Reds, 3-1

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Lefthander Randy Jones didn't have his good sinker Wednesday night and that's extremely unusual for the San Diego Padre hurler.

The result Jones got without it wasn't, however. The Padre ace improved his record to 14-3 with a six-hit, 3-1 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

"My sinker was on and off," said the 26-year-old southpaw, "so I didn't throw it nearly as much as usual. I don't think it would have been wise to throw it too much tonight."

As a result, baseball's winningest pitcher relied primarily on his breaking pitches and still was able to defeat the Reds for the sixth time in his last seven decisions against them.

"You might say I got by on an above average slider, a real good curve and a mediocre fast ball," summed up the Padres' Cy Young Award candidate.

Jones, who defeated the defending World Champions earlier this season, 4-2, disposed of them this time in an hour and 49 minutes while logging his 13th complete game of the year.

"The concession people must be the only ones who don't like the way he pitches," said Reds' third baseman Pete Rose. "He gets the game over so fast, they don't have time to sell any beer."

Rose, who has a career batting average against Jones somewhere around the .100 mark, tried batting left-handed against the Padre pitcher Wednesday night in hopes of having better luck.

"It didn't help any with that guy," Rose decided after going hitless in three trips. "But I did draw a walk. That's something only three batters have done against him in his last 80 innings."

Actually, the Reds took a 1-0 lead off Jones in the third inning when Cesar Geronimo led off with a single, was sacrificed to second and eventually came home when Ken Griffey grounded a single up the middle.

The Padres bounced back in the fourth to take a 2-1 lead off Reds' starter Jack Billingham on a sacrifice fly by Fred Kendall and an RBI double by shortstop Enzo Hernandez.

San Diego added an insurance run in the fifth when Tito Fuentes and Willie Davis opened with singles, Dave Winfield was intentionally walked with one out and Doug Rader delivered a sacrifice fly to right.

That proved plenty for Jones as he stopped the Reds over the final five innings on two hits and put them out in order in three of the innings.

"He's a good pitcher and he gets the breaks," said Rose. "You can't be 14-3 without having some luck along the way just like you can't hit .3" without getting the breaks."

Cincinnati manager Sparky Anderson, who will manage the National League All-Star team July 13, declined to comment on whether Jones would be his starting pitcher.

"He hasn't even made the team yet," said Anderson. "I'm not going to assure anybody they've made it. Nobody will know my selections until they come out of the Commissioner's office."

They're playing Mike Marshall's tune at Dodger Stadium. No, not the organist — the boobies.

"Really, I consider it the same as an ovation when I come here as a visitor and get booed," says the artistic relief pitcher.

Marshall, once a Cy Young winner for the Los Angeles Dodgers, is doing his thing these days for the Atlanta Braves. Facing his former teammates for the third straight game Wednesday night, the burly right-hander pitched nearly spotless relief to help the Braves beat the Dodgers 8-3.

During Marshall's performance, he got an unpleasant earful from the Dodger fans. He considered the boos a compliment, however.

"After all, those fans don't want to see me in there at all," said a logical Marshall.

Marshall was used to the fans' abuse, anyway. Even when he pitched for the Dodgers, he had gotten a steady stream of jeers because of his frequent clashes with management, teammates and the press.

In the other National League games, the San Diego Padres beat the Cincinnati Reds 3-1; the Pittsburgh Pirates stopped the Chicago Cubs 7-5 and the San Francisco Giants buried the Houston Astros 10-2. Two games were postponed by rain — St. Louis at New York and Philadelphia at Montreal.

Earl Williams and Willie Montanez each hit three-run homers to back Marshall's clutch relief pitching. Williams slugged his homer in the fifth, breaking a scoreless duel between Atlanta's Phil Niekro, 8-4, and Burt Hooton, 5-9, who has now lost four straight decisions.

An inning later Montanez hit his sixth homer as the Braves took a 6-0 lead. The Dodgers ended Niekro's bid for a shutout, scoring twice in the seventh. But Marshall took over to cool Los Angeles' rally and allowed only one hit to his former team, a ninth-inning home run by Steve Garvey.

Pirates 7, Cubs 5
Richie Zisk's two-run triple highlighted a four-run sixth inning and Pittsburgh held on to defeat Chicago.

Giants 10, Astros 2
Gary Thomasson drove in three runs with a double and a single and Ed Halicki scattered seven hits, leading San Francisco over Houston.

A-C Special Team Wins Medals In Olympic Games

Amanda-Clearcreek's Special Olympics team has just returned after a successful trip to the 1976 Special Olympics.

Representing Amanda-Clearcreek EMR classes are Theresa Greeno, Virgil Greeno, Mark Cremons, Ray Love, Pat Toill and Richard Hendrick. All six athletes won honors.

Winners were: Ray Love, 14-15-year-old, 220-yard run, silver medal; Richard Hendrick, 12-13-year-old, softball throw, silver medal; 440 junior relay team consisting of Ray Love, Mark Cremons, Virgil Greeno and Pat Toill, silver medal.

Coaches and chaperones for these athletes were Patti Wells, Diane Bresler and Rita Wooten Special Education teachers at Amanda schools.

All of these athletes have just participated in the 8th annual Ohio Athletic Association Special Olympics Program, an athletic and recreational program for the mentally retarded. After successfully competing in the local programs they were chosen to represent Amanda Clearcreek at the 1976 Special Olympics.

Over 2000 participants were involved in the weekend program held at Ohio State University June 25-27. Activities included eight official sports, performing art show, sports clinics, fireworks and a dance.

Opening ceremonies started the weekend off with the Parade of Athletes and the traditional lighting of the torch, all of the athletes of Amanda took part.

Anderson Facing Wealth Of Choices

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Cincinnati Reds Manager Sparky Anderson is sure to have headaches selecting this year's National League All-Star team, and his own players aren't helping things any.

They're playing too well. As manager of the defending league champions, Anderson picks his coaches, the pitching staff and reserves, once the fan voting is finished.

He is mandated to pick one player from each team, and a surplus of talent at several positions figure to make the choices difficult.

Youth League

GIRLS MAJOR SOFTBALL

Pro Shop 19, Clear Span 6

Brenda Bell provided the plate power with four hits including a triple and two doubles while Theresa Isaac performed the mound duties for the winners. Kim Wolfe handled the pitching chores for Clear Span.

Kim Smith and Mary Pat Sberna both had a double while Athena Albright rapped four hits for Pro Shop. Bonnie Riffle belted a pair of doubles and Kim Wolfe slammed a two-bagger.

A feature of the game was a triple play pulled off by Pro Shop.

LITTLE LEAGUE MINORS

Ward's Market 10, Second National Bank

Ward's tallied six runs in the bottom of the first inning to take a commanding lead while Jay Sharrett and Jeff Grabans shared the mound duties for the winners in a makeup game.

Jeff Scudder rapped a triple for the winners while Terry Reed and Jay Sharrett each slammed a double. Blevins belted a triple for the Bankers and Barnes added a double.

LITTLE LEAGUE MAJORS

American Legion 3, Coca Cola 0

Kevin Weaver hurled one-hit ball and fanned 15 to gain the win while Jim Bevins fired a three-hitter and struck out nine for Coke.

Kevin Weaver slammed a triple and Jack Leasure and Fred Pyles each rapped a hit to account for the Legion totals. Jeff McGowan belted a double for Coke's only hit.

Braden qualified for the Grand National Championships in Lincoln, Nebraska and the "Wilfrido Massieu" Tournament in Mexico City.

The first and second place in Nebraska will advance to Training Camp and represent the U.S.A. in the World Schoolboy Championships.

Braden is coached by his brothers, who wrestle at Teays Valley High School.

Teams Share Honors In PCC Ladies Golf

Two teams shared honors following Pickaway Country Club Ladies Golf League play Tuesday. Weekly winners with 10 points each were teams No. 1 and No. 5.

Number 1 Team members are Jane Climer, Helen Jacobs, Jane Plum and Alice Camp. Playing on No. 5 team were Phyllis Williams, Phyl Dutch, Ruth Marshall, and Hester Weldon.

Earning a close 2nd place in Tuesday's play was team No. 6 with nine points.

Giovanni's Conquer Railroad Salvage

Giovanni's defeated Railroad Salvage 19-7, in a slow pitch softball game Wednesday at Ted Lewis Park.

Steve Thomas was the winning pitcher for Giovanni's while Herb Sturgell was on the hill for Railroad Salvage.

Big hitters for the winners were Dale Imler Mike Benroth, Terry Leasure, Rick Prushing, Steve Thomas and Kenny Smith.

Drawings Postponed In Softball Tourney

Drawings for the District 8 tournament for fast pitch and industrial slow pitch teams has been postponed until Wednesday at Wright Field Diamond No. 1 in Chillicothe.

Teams not already entered must be represented and entries will not be accepted after the drawings.

Padres Outlast Reds, 3-1

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Lefthander Randy Jones didn't have his good sinker Wednesday night and that's extremely unusual for the San Diego Padre hurler.

The result Jones got without it wasn't, however. The Padre ace improved his record to 14-3 with a six-hit, 3-1 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

"My sinker was on and off," said the 26-year-old southpaw, "so I didn't throw it nearly as much as usual. I don't think it would have been wise to throw it too much tonight."

As a result, baseball's winningest pitcher relied primarily on his breaking pitches and still was able to defeat the Reds for the sixth time in his last seven decisions against them.

"You might say I got by on an above average slider, a real good curve and a mediocre fast ball," summed up the Padres' Cy Young Award candidate.

Jones, who defeated the defending World Champions earlier this season, 4-2, disposed of them this time in an hour and 49 minutes while logging his 13th complete game of the year.

"The concession people must be the only ones who don't like the way he pitches," said Reds' third baseman Pete Rose. "He gets the game over so fast, they don't have time to sell any beer."

Rose, who has a career batting average against Jones somewhere around the .100 mark, tried batting left-handed against the Padre pitcher Wednesday night in hopes of having better luck.

"It didn't help any with that guy," Rose decided after going hitless in three trips. "But I did draw a walk. That's something only three batters have done against him in his last 80 innings."

Actually, the Reds took a 1-0 lead off Jones in the third inning when Cesar Geronimo led off with a single, was sacrificed to second and eventually came home when Ken Griffey grounded a single up the middle.

The Padres bounced back in the fourth to take a 2-1 lead off Reds' starter Jack Billingham on a sacrifice fly by Fred Kendall and an RBI double by shortstop Enzo Hernandez.

San Diego added an insurance run in the fifth when Tito Fuentes and Willie Davis opened with singles, Dave Winfield was intentionally walked with one out and Doug Rader delivered a sacrifice fly to right.

That proved plenty for Jones as he stopped the Reds over the final five innings on two hits and put them out in order in three of the innings.

"He's a good pitcher and he gets the breaks," said Rose. "You can't be 14-3 without having some luck along the way just like you can't hit .3" without getting the breaks."

Cincinnati manager Sparky Anderson, who will manage the National League All-Star team July 13, declined to comment on whether Jones would be his starting pitcher.

"He hasn't even made the team yet," said Anderson. "I'm not going to assure anybody they've made it. Nobody will know my selections until they come out of the Commissioner's office."

They're playing Mike Marshall's tune at Dodger Stadium. No, not the organist — the boobbirds.

"Really, I consider it the same as an ovation when I come here as a visitor and get booed," says the artistic relief pitcher.

Marshall, once a Cy Young winner for the Los Angeles Dodgers, is doing his thing these days for the Atlanta Braves. Facing his former teammates for the third straight game Wednesday night, the burly right-hander pitched nearly spotless relief to help the Braves beat the Dodgers 8-3.

During Marshall's performance, he got an unpleasant earful from the Dodger fans. He considered the boos a compliment, however.

"After all, those fans don't want to see me in there at all," said a logical Marshall.

Marshall was used to the fans' abuse, anyway. Even when he pitched for the Dodgers, he had gotten a steady stream of jeers because of his frequent clashes with management, teammates and the press.

In the other National League games, the San Diego Padres beat the Cincinnati Reds 3-1; the Pittsburgh Pirates stopped the Chicago Cubs 7-5 and the San Francisco Giants buried the Houston Astros 10-2. Two games were postponed by rain — St. Louis at New York and Philadelphia at Montreal.

Earl Williams and Willie Montanez each hit three-run homers to back Marshall's clutch relief pitching. Williams slugged his homer in the fifth, breaking a scoreless duel between Atlanta's Phil Niekro, 8-4, and Burt Hooton, 5-9, who has now lost four straight decisions.

An inning later Montanez hit his sixth homer as the Braves took a 6-0 lead. The Dodgers ended Niekro's bid for a shutout, scoring twice in the seventh. But Marshall took over to cool Los Angeles' rally and allowed only one hit to his former team, a ninth-inning home run by Steve Garvey.

Pirates 7, Cubs 5
Richie Zisk's two-run triple highlighted a four-run sixth inning and Pittsburgh held on to defeat Chicago.

Giants 10, Astros 2
Gary Thomasson drove in three runs with a double and a single and Ed Halicki scattered seven hits, leading San Francisco over Houston.

A-C Special Team Wins Medals In Olympic Games

Amanda-Clearcreek's Special Olympics team has just returned after a successful trip to the 1976 Special Olympics.

Representing Amanda-Clearcreek EMR classes are Theresa Greeno, Virgil Greeno, Mark Cremeans, Ray Love, Pat Toill and Richard Hendrick. All six athletes won honors.

Winners were: Ray Love, 14-15-year-old, 220-yard run, silver medal; Richard Hendrick, 12-13-year-old, softball throw, silver medal; 440 junior relay team consisting of Ray Love, Mark Cremeans, Virgil Greeno and Pat Toill, silver medal.

Coaches and chaperones for these athletes were Patti Wells, Diane Bresler and Rita Wooten Special Education teachers at Amanda schools.

All of these athletes have just participated in the 8th annual Ohio Athletic Association Special Olympics Program, an athletic and recreational program for the mentally retarded. After successfully competing in the local programs they were chosen to represent Amanda Clearcreek at the 1976 Special Olympics.

Over 2000 participants were involved in the weekend program held at Ohio State University June 25-27. Activities included eight official sports, performing art show, sports clinics, fireworks and a dance.

Opening ceremonies started the weekend off with the Parade of Athletes and the traditional lighting of the torch, all of the athletes of Amanda took part.

3-Man Scramble At Lansdowne

Wednesday Night Men's League at Upper Lansdowne held a three-man team scramble last night.

Professional Lawn Care captured low gross with a 34. Team members were: Chuck Miller, Robin Ott and Leonard Yates.

Taking low net with 24 2-3 points was the Marathon Bulk Plant team of Leonard Campbell, Lowell and Paul Francis.

Other awards were: Damon Welch, longest drive No. 9; Doug Marshall, closest to the pin No. 5; Roger Glyod, longest putt No. 6.

Second half league play will begin next Wednesday.

Anderson Facing Wealth Of Choices

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Cincinnati Reds Manager Sparky Anderson is sure to have headaches selecting this year's National League All-Star team, and his own players aren't helping things any.

They're playing too well.

As manager of the defending league champions, Anderson picks his coaches, the pitching staff and reserves, once the fan voting is finished.

He is mandated to pick one player from each team, and a surplus of talent at several positions figure to make the choices difficult.

For Unmatched Action Anglers Like Flyfishing

By JIM DAUBEL
Written For Associated Press

There is a certain romance about flyfishing that is unmatched by any other angling method.

It is the classic technique for taking certain fish species, trout and salmon in particular.

Flyfishing's great appeal lies chiefly in the fact that it demands more skill from the fisherman and therefore yields more satisfaction than most fishing methods.

Comparably skilled fishermen will be more successful with live bait and artificials than with fly tackle in fishing all types of water under all weather conditions.

Overlooking that, however, there is great sport to be had in countless Ohio streams, lakes and farm ponds where bass and panfish await the practiced flyrodder.

Fast Court Helps Top Tennis Stars

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — The grass on the famed Wimbledon center court, browned by weeks of hot sun and scuffed by 10 days of hard play, has put an added premium this year on the lightning services of the top tennis stars.

Grass is the delight of the big serve and quick putaway volley players, and the despair of those who prefer the baseline maneuvers of clay courts.

Roscoe Tanner of Lookout Mountain, Tenn., reputed to have the fastest service in the game at 140 miles per hour, turned around Wimbledon by crushing second-seeded Jimmy Connors in straight sets in the men's singles quarter-finals. His cannonball serves kicked up the dust and skidded away at such a pace, they were hard to follow.

But Connors said, "Never dig up the grass at Wimbledon, as they did at Forest Hills (N.Y. for the U.S. Open). If you do, I'll never come back again."

The programmers complicated the lives of the touring pros by scheduling Wimbledon only a week after the French championships, played on the slow clay courts at Roland Garros Stadium in Paris.

The players would like to have about three weeks on British grass to tune up for Wimbledon and shake the clay court habits from their systems. Arthur Ashe, president of the Association of Tennis Professionals, says his organization is going to press the question with the federations.

Red Wings Rip Syracuse In IL, 6-1

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Former Chiefs' hurler Scott McGregor stifled his old teammates Wednesday evening with a three-hitter as the Rochester Red Wings posted a 6-1 International League victory over host Syracuse.

The victory edged the Red Wings into first place, with a half-game margin over Syracuse.

It was McGregor's sixth victory against five losses. Rochester's Jim Fuller wiped out a 1-0 Syracuse lead in the top of the fifth inning with a 400-foot homer with two men aboard.

In other IL action Wednesday, Tidewater topped Memphis 6-3; Richmond defeated Charleston 6-2; and Cleveland slammed their Toledo farm club 13-1 in an exhibition game.

Ron Diggle and Rich Miller each had three hits in Tidewater's victory. It was Memphis' seventh consecutive loss.

Al Autrey hurled Richmond to victory. His teammates helped him out with 12 hits.

Ron Turcotte led the jockeys at Aqueduct's winter-spring meeting with 104 winners. Runnerup Jorge Velasquez had 85.

Wrong Pitcher Still Helps Angels

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
AP Sports Writer

Ross is a four-letter word. So is Ryan.

And so was what California Manager Dick Williams must have said when he inadvertently wrote Nolan Ryan's name on his line-up card and then had to start the fireballer against the Chicago White Sox Wednesday night.

"It was three or four minutes after the National Anthem when he (Williams) came up and told me I had to pitch," said Ryan, who had just rejoined the club after having his tender elbow examined. "I was just sitting down getting ready to watch the game. I didn't even have my spikes on. I had to go into the clubhouse to get my glove. By the time I started warming up the game had already started."

Ryan, who has hurled a record-tying four no-hitters in his career, pitched perfect baseball ... for both of his two pitches. Chicago's Chet Lemon grounded the second one to shortstop and Ryan promptly gave way to Gary Ross, the scheduled starter, who pitched 7 2-3 strong innings as the Angels edged the Chicago White Sox 2-1 in 10 innings.

Elsewhere in the American League, the Kansas City Royals downed the Minnesota Twins 4-2, the Texas Rangers nipped the Oakland A's 3-2 and the Boston Red Sox defeated the Baltimore Orioles 6-4. The New York-Detroit game was rained out while Cleveland and Milwaukee were not scheduled.

"It was a colossal goof, plain as that," Williams said. "I was talking with the trainer about Ryan and penciled his name in. I just fouled it up. If that man (Lemon) would have gotten on and scored, it would have cost me $500. Now it will just cost me $100."

Who fined him?
"I fined myself. Hell, yes, I had to. If it would have been one of the players I'd be on him. I was more angry than embarrassed. It was just sheer stupidity."

Royals 4, Twins 2

Major league batting leader George Brett scored the go-ahead run and then drove in an insurance tally two innings later. Brett, who enjoyed his 16th three-hit game of the season and boosted his batting average to .361, tripled and scored in the sixth inning to break a 2-2 tie. His RIB single in the eighth boosted the Royals into a two-run lead.

Rangers 3, A's 2

Light-hitting Jim Sundberg delivered two run-scoring singles to back the clutch pitching of Gaylord Perry and reliever Steve Foucault as

Becca Star Winner Of Scioto Feature

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Becca Star shot into the lead in the stretch and notched a threequarter length victory in the featured race at Scioto Downs Wednesday night.

The winner, pacing the mile in 2:03 3-5, returned $28.80, $9.20 and $6. Welfare Director paid $9.80 and $5.40 for second and Tarpoit Worthy, $3 for show.

The 6-8 daily double combination of Always Neato and Chita B. was worth $74.40.

A crowd of 4,445 wagered $246,746.

Twenty athletes named "Martin" have played in the major leagues. The most active Martin is Manager Billy Martin of the New York Yankees.

U.S. Withdraws From Davis Cup

LONDON (AP) — The United States withdrew from the Davis Cup tennis competition today and from the Davis Cup organization in protest against failure to impose sanctions on countries which withdraw for political reasons.

Britain and France withdrew today from the 1977 Davis Cup competition, but did not announce withdrawal from the Davis Cup organization.

Limber Legs Wins Latonia Feature

FLORENCE, KY. (AP) — Limber Legs took the lead in the stretch Wednesday night and went on to win the featured sixth race at Latonia by one-half length.

The winner paid $4.60, $2.40 and $2.20, while second-place Mar Jim Jo returned $2.40 and $2.20. Show horse was C.L. Major at $2.20.

Tribe Faces Top Series

CLEVELAND (AP) — There was no reluctance in his voice as Cleveland Manager Frank Robinson admitted the fourgame series with the Yankees that opens here tonight is the most important since he took over the job in April of 1975.

"This is the biggest — by far," Robinson said matter-of-factly. "We need three of four to help us make a race of it before the All-Star break."

The same teams split a quartet of tension-filled games in New York last week, but the Indians find themselves right where they began that series — seven games behind the Yankees in second place of the American League East.

"I'm not planning on saying anything special to my players," Robinson said. "They don't want to get over-keyed up. They know how important this series is to us without me saying anything."

The Yankees, who lost a twogame series this week at Detroit, have nevertheless won 12 of their last 16. The Indians have taken 14 of 20 and stand three games over .500 for the first time since August 21, 1974.

Pitching has been the strongpoint for both teams. The Yankees lead the AL in earned run average with a mark of 3.20, while the Indians are second with a 3.23 ERA.

For Unmatched Action Anglers Like Flyfishing

By JIM DAUBEL
Written For Associated Press
There is a certain romance about flyfishing that is unmatched by any other angling method.
It is the classic technique for taking certain fish species, trout and salmon in particular.
Flyfishing's great appeal lies chiefly in the fact that it demands more skill from the fisherman and therefore yields more satisfaction than most fishing methods.

Comparably skilled fishermen will be more successful with live bait and artificials than with fly tackle in fishing all types of water under all weather conditions.
Overlooking that, however, there is great sport to be had in countless Ohio streams, lakes and farm ponds where bass and panfish await the practiced flyrodder.
Outfitting yourself once was flyfishing's biggest headache. But within the last few years manufacturers have made an effort to remove some of the mystery in buying a flycasting outfit.
Most major companies now designate recommended line weights on the rod or in accompanying literature. Moreover, the ancient system of stating line weights also has been modernized.
Beginners shopping for their first fly rod and reel should consult a knowledgeable friend or tackle dealer. Their advice can save money in the long run.
A general purpose combination might consist of a seven or eight-foot medium action rod, five to seven weight floating or sinking line that is double tapered.
Several leading manufacturers make it easier for the novice by enclosing complete casting and fishing instruction with their rods.
There is a myth that labels flyfishing as impossibly difficult. It is not. It is trickier than bait casting or spinning, but any average angler, with balanced gear and a minimum of patience and practice, can master the basics of flycasting.
Thereafter it is a short step to fishing success.
Try casting popper bugs for bass and small dry flies for panfish, especially in the evening. Streamer flies or floating bugs are choice baits for smallmouth bass and panfish in streams.
And when panfish won't respond to topwater offerings, employ the ultimate weapon: a wet fly tipped with a maggot or mealworm and fished deep.
A fly rod is not a meat fishing instrument. But for angling sport and unparalleled action, it is difficult to beat.

Fast Court Helps Top Tennis Stars

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — The grass on the famed Wimbledon center court, browned by weeks of hot sun and scuffed by 10 days of hard play, has put an added premium this year on the lightning services of the top tennis stars.

Grass is the delight of the big serve and quick putaway volley players, and the despair of those who prefer the baseline maneuvers of clay courts.
Roscoe Tanner of Lookout Mountain, Tenn., reputed to have the fastest service in the game at 140 miles per hour, turned around Wimbledon by crushing second-seeded Jimmy Connors in straight sets in the men's singles quarter-finals. His cannonball serves kicked up the dust and skidded away at such a pace, they were hard to follow.
But Connors said, "Never dig up the grass at Wimbledon, as they did at Forest Hills (N.Y. for the U.S. Open). If you do, I'll never come back again."
The programmers complicated the lives of the touring pros by scheduling Wimbledon only a week after the French championships, played on the slow clay courts at Roland Garros Stadium in Paris.
The players would like to have about three weeks on British grass to tune up for Wimbledon and shake the clay court habits from their systems. Arthur Ashe, president of the Association of Tennis Professionals, says his organization is going to press the question with the federations.

Red Wings Rip Syracuse In IL, 6-1

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Former Chiefs' hurler Scott McGregor stifled his old teammates Wednesday evening with a three-hitter as the Rochester Red Wings posted a 6-1 International League victory over host Syracuse.
The victory edged the Red Wings into first place, with a half-game margin over Syracuse.
It was McGregor's sixth victory against five losses. Rochester's Jim Fuller wiped out a 1-0 Syracuse lead in the top of the fifth inning with a 400-foot homer with two men aboard.
In other IL action Wednesday, Tidewater topped Memphis 6-3; Richmond defeated Charleston 6-2; and Cleveland slammed their Toledo farm club 13-1 in an exhibition game.
Ron Diggie and Rich Miller each had three hits in Tidewater's victory. It was Memphis' seventh consecutive loss.
Al Autrey hurled Richmond to victory. His teammates helped him out with 12 hits.

Ron Turcotte led the jockeys at Aqueduct's winter-spring meeting with 104 winners. Runnerup Jorge Velasquez had 85.

Tribe Faces Top Series

CLEVELAND (AP) — There was no reluctance in his voice as Cleveland Manager Frank Robinson admitted the fourgame series with the Yankees that opens here tonight is the most important since he took over the job in April of 1975.
"This is the biggest — by far," Robinson said matter-of-factly. "We need three of four to help us make a race of it before the All-Star break."
The same teams split a quartet of tension-filled games in New York last week, but the Indians find themselves right where they began that series — seven games behind the Yankees in second place of the American League East.
"I'm not planning on saying anything special to my players," Robinson said. "They don't want to get over-keyed up. They know how important this series is to us without me saying anything."
The Yankees, who lost a twogame series this week at Detroit, have nevertheless won 12 of their last 16. The Indians have taken 14 of 20 and stand three games over .500 for the first time since August 21, 1974.
Pitching has been the strongpoint for both teams. The Yankees lead the AL in earned run average with a mark of 3.20, while the Indians are second with a 3.23 ERA.

Wrong Pitcher Still Helps Angels

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
AP Sports Writer
Ross is a four-letter word.
So is Ryan.
And so was what California Manager Dick Williams must have said when he inadvertently wrote Nolan Ryan's name on his line-up card and then had to start the fireballer against the Chicago White Sox Wednesday night.
"It was three or four minutes after the National Anthem when he (Williams) came up and told me I had to pitch," said Ryan, who had just rejoined the club after having his tender elbow examined. "I was just sitting down getting ready to watch the game. I didn't even have my spikes on. I had to go into the clubhouse to get my glove. By the time I started warming up the game had already started."
Ryan, who has hurled a record-tying

four no-hitters in his career, pitched perfect baseball ... for both of his two pitches. Chicago's Chet Lemon grounded the second one to shortstop and Ryan promptly gave way to Gary Ross, the scheduled starter, who pitched 7 2-3 strong innings as the Angels edged the Chicago White Sox 2-1 in 10 innings.

Elsewhere in the American League, the Kansas City Royals downed the Minnesota Twins 4-2, the Texas Rangers nipped the Oakland A's 3-2 and the Boston Red Sox defeated the Baltimore Orioles 6-4. The New York-Detroit game was rained out while Cleveland and Milwaukee were not scheduled.

"It was a colossal goof, plain as that," Williams said. "I was talking with the trainer about Ryan and penciled his name in. I just fouled it up. If that man (Lemon) would have gotten on and scored, it would have cost me $500. Now it will just cost me $100."

Who fined him?
"I fined myself. Hell, yes, I had to. If it would have been one of the players I'd be on him. I was more angry than embarrassed. It was just sheer stupidity."

Royals 4, Twins 2
Major league batting leader George Brett scored the go-ahead run and then drove in an insurance tally two innings later. Brett, who enjoyed his 16th three-hit game of the season and boosted his batting average to .361, tripled and scored in the sixth inning to break a 2-2 tie. His RIB single in the eighth boosted the Royals into a two-run lead.

Rangers 3, A's 2
Light-hitting Jim Sundberg delivered two run-scoring singles to back the clutch pitching of Gaylord Perry and reliever Steve Foucault as the Rangers remained 3½ games behind Kansas City in the AL West. Sundberg only had 10 runs batted in going into the game and was batting just .230 when he victimized Mike Torrez with run-scoring hits in the fifth and seventh innings.

Red Sox 6, Orioles 4
Fred Lynn collected four straight hits and Jim Rice belted a tie-breaking two-run homer as the Red Sox made it three in a row over Baltimore. Shaving cream was sprayed and water and ice thrown around in a clubhouse scene reminiscent of a pennant-clinching victory after the Red Sox handed eight-game winner Wayne Garland his first loss.

Becca Star Winner Of Scioto Feature

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Becca Star shot into the lead in the stretch and notched a threequarter length victory in the featured race at Scioto Downs Wednesday night.
The winner, pacing the mile in 2:03 3-5, returned $28.80, $9.20 and $6. Welfare Director paid $9.80 and $5.40 for second and Tarport Worthy, $3 for show.
The 6-8 daily double combination of Always Neato and Chita B. was worth $74.40.
A crowd of 4,445 wagered $246,746.

Twenty athletes named "Martin" have played in the major leagues. The most active Martin is Manager Billy Martin of the New York Yankees.

replaced by a gasoline station in later years.

Steward's Opera House on East Main Street was built in 1884 with a 500 seating capacity. This was a mecca for various kinds of entertainment such as traveling shows, minstrels, home talent plays, farmers institute meetings. High school graduation exercises were held here until 1916 when the event was moved to the present Zion M.E. Church. This building is now owned by C.W. Fortner.

Messick's Hall, no longer standing, stood at the corner of Gay and Long Street, and the second floor was used for various purposes including athletic events of the high school. The champion basketball teams of Ashville High School of 1915, 1916 and 1917 played here.

The IOOF building at Wright and Long Streets served many purposes besides lodge meetings. During World War II it was used for USO gatherings. Hoover's Woods on North Long Street was the scene of many outdoor meetings, such as family reunions, club picnics. Later, Ashville was on a chautauqua circuit and the programs were held there before moving to the Community Park.

Children went to the Greenfield School (across Rt 752 from Teays Valley High School) until a two room building was erected in Ashville. Later it was replaced by a four-room building, and in 1901 a seven-room brick was built for grades and high school. The first graduating class of five was in 1896. In 1928 a new building on Walnut and Park Streets welcomed the students. A building for elementary grades was opened in 1954. In 1962 the Teays Valley High School began having been formed by the Ashville-Harrison High School, the Scioto Township High School and the Walnut-Madison High School. The first superintendent of the Ashville Schools was C.B. Shook.

The Citizens Bank was organized in 1894 with a capital of $25,000, and the Ashville Bank in 1906 with a capital of $50,000.

Some of the earlier business leaders were Geo. C. Morrison (also first postmaster), S.W. Miller, John Messick, Wm. Ward, J.P. Rockey, Peter Hoffhines, W. E. Hoover, S.C. Allison, D.H. Ebert, Wm. Bowers, Joseph Hedges, Henry Cromley, G.H. Kraft, G.A. Hook, Clyde Brinker, G.P. Teegardin, James Ward, C.E. Brown.

Some of the earliest doctors were Dr. D.H. Squire, Dr. R.S. Postle, Dr. J.O. Stout, Dr. G.R. Gardner and Dr. W. H. Silbaugh. Dr. R.S. Hosler has served the community longer than any other physician. Dr. H. J. Bond and Dr. C. J. Rockey were dentists.

The Scioto Valley Interurban ran through the village from 1904 until 1930. In 1926 the C & O came on the west side.

Two outstanding features that have placed Ashville on the map are the unique traffic light at Long and Main which was invented by T.A. Boor in the early thirties. The second is the annual fourth of July celebration now in its 46th year and a member of the Ohio Festivals Assn. This celebration, lasting four days, is sponsored by the Ashville Community Club and the proceeds have been used to benefit much good in the community.

From the pioneer struggles over the past century our heritage is a fascinating one. May we, in these Bicentennial years, pause to pay respect for the many blessings brought to the present generation.

Two outstanding features that have placed Ashville on the map are the unique traffic light at Long and Main which was invented by T.A. Boor in the early thirties. The second is the annual fourth of July celebration now in its 46th year and a member of the Ohio Festivals Assn. This celebration, lasting four days, is sponsored by the Ashville Community Club and the proceeds have been used to benefit much good in the community.

From the pioneer struggles over the past century our heritage is a fascinating one. May we, in these Bicentennial years, pause to pay respect for the many blessings brought to the present generation.

Fairfield Foster Home Looking For Parents

The Fairfield County Foster Home Program, under the administration of Juvenile Court Judge S. Farrell Jackson, received funding through the 314-D Mental Health grant. The program is designed to develop, train and work with foster parents and foster youth.

Monthly meetings are held at O.U.-L. for foster parents and foster youths and those interested in knowing more about foster care. Two separate meetings are held. Susie Morse, youth case worker, facilitates the youths meeting and Jacki Lantz, parent case worker, the parents.

Program officials, under the directions of Diana Baker, are actively recruiting homes, working towards our goal of developing 25 foster and 25 shelter homes. Interested persons should contact the Foster Home Program at 654-3838 between 9 and 12. Suzie Hyme, secretary, will be able to give information concerning the program.

The Program staff works under the guidance of Jennifer LaRue, Foster Care Specialists for Fairfield County Juvenile Court.

Plans are underway for the annual Derby Homecoming to be held the last weekend in July.

Congratulations to former Derby resident the Rev. Edwin Lewis, associate pastor of Marysville First United Methodist Church. Eddie graduated on June 12 from Methodist Theological School of Ohio and received his degree as master of divinity. He received his undergraduate degree from Ohio State University. His wife is the former Sharon McPherson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Troy McPherson.

Congratulations to John Lenz on his recent appointment as director of application engineering at Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Company. He is a registered professional engineer and a member of IEEE. He is married to the former Rosemary Bauhan of Derby.

The community welcomes Mr. and Mrs. Galen Ellsworth who have purchased the former James Mathias property.

Mrs. Georgia Sweet underwent minor surgery at Mt. Carmel Medical Center June 15 and is improving nicely.

Cheryl Ann Seferenke of Orient, a student at Teays Valley is among 85 students in Ohio chosen as Ohio University summer scholars. She ranks in the top ten per cent of her class. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Seferenke.

Small Farms Exempted From OSHA

WASHINGTON (AP) — A compromise exempting the smallest farms from provisions of the Occupational Safety and Health Act has removed the last obstacle to completing Senate action on a $57-billion appropriation bill.

An agreement to vote on the OSHA compromise was reached Tuesday and ended the threat of a filibuster.

The compromise would exempt farms with an average of five or fewer employees and no more than 12 on any single day from OSHA regulations designed to protect the health and safety of workers.

It also would drop fines in cases of first instances of nonserious violations of the act.

The compromise was put forth after a long debate in which farm state senators voiced bitter criticism of OSHA inspectors, accusing them of abusing their authority.

"We're trying to protect citizens from their own government," said Sen. Bill Brock, R-Tenn.

Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Neb., said he was seeking "some relief from the tyranny the country has been facing."

Brock, Curtis and Sen. James Abourezk, D-S.D., were among the coalition trying to preserve a provision included in the bill by the House that exempted farms with 10 or fewer employees from coverage by OSHA.

But Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., one of the floor managers of the bill, noted that the House provision would exempt more than 85 per cent of the nation's farms.

Brooke pointed out that farming was the third most hazardous occupation, with thousands of serious injuries or deaths annually.

Mayors Get Federal Promises

MILWAUKEE (AP) — It took five days but the Ford administration finally brought out its big gun at the U.S. Mayors Conference here — the political power of the incumbency.

The mayors wind up their six-day meeting today with consideration of resolutions ranging from a basic "guns or butter" priorities issue, to a Democratic effort to endorse full-employment legislation.

Ford administration officials — attempting to demonstrate that while Jimmy Carter may promise help for the cities, only President Ford can deliver now — announced on Wednesday three programs for cities.

Housing and Urban Development Secretary Carla Hills said President Ford has appointed a Cabinet-level committee to deal with urban development policy.

The Labor Department reported the allocation of $35 million to fund summer jobs for another 60,000 unemployed youths living in 45 large cities.

HUD said six cities — Jersey City, N.J.; Louisville, Ky.; New Orleans; Rochester, N.Y.; New Haven, Conn.; and Oklahoma City — will receive $21.4 million for a tenants' training program in "a promising new approach to improve life in the nation's public housing."

Though the politics involved in releasing word of the programs here were apparent, the Democratic majority of the mayors' conference seemed pleased with the attention.

Kenneth Gibson, the Newark, N.J., mayor who becomes the first black president in conference history today, reflected on the programs and said, "This gives the lie to the idea that we have no political influence."

"The administration is recognizing that the mayors are here, and that we are expressing concern, and the administration is smart in making these announcements. It is a shrewd political move."

Ford declined an invitation to speak to the 300 mayors, but he was represented here by domestic council staffers and a bevy of agency officials, including Mrs. Hills and Commerce Secretary Elliot Richardson.

Weather In State Both Odd, Normal

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ohio weather promises to improve for the holiday weekend, with clear skies and moderate temperatures forecast by the National Weather Service.

That promise should be a welcome one for Ohio residents who have suffered through a seemingly endless string of dreary days, mixed with thunderstorms and tornado alerts.

The latest barrage swept into the state Tuesday evening by way of Cincinnati, setting off storm warning sirens and flooding law enforcement switchboards with reports of funnel cloud sightings.

The weather service said none of the reports of tornado sightings has been confirmed and damage, if any, from the latest storms was minimal.

Funnel clouds were reported in the Dayton-Springfield area, in the Plain City vicinity and southeast of Zanesville.

Jim Thompson, forecaster for the service, said the recent storms passing across Ohio are bred in the upper atmosphere and dumped into the area. The seemingly endless duration of the stormy weather isn't unusual in the summer, he said, just as a string of sparkling, sunny days would not be.

"In summer, weather systems tend to move more slowly, to stagnate," he explained.

The latest bad weather grew out of a low pressure center hanging 18,000 feet over eastern Lake Superior, he said. That system is pulling cooler air out of Canada into this area which sets off the violent weather.

Cecil Simmons, another forecaster, said this kind of weather at this time of the year is more typical along the East Coast where air currents drag

County Receives Criminal Cost Subsidy Payment

Pickaway County received $3,168.95 in criminal cost subsidy payments during June, according to State Auditor Thomas E. Ferguson.

Payments amounting to $445,882.81 were distributed to 79 county clerks of courts.

The payments ranged from $56.20 to the Noble County clerk of court to $83,076.83 to the Cuyahoga County clerk of court, Ferguson said.

The state paid for the successful prosecution and imprisonment of indigent persons convicted of felonies. For fiscal 1976, $2,115,000 was appropriated by the legislature to the Auditor's office for this purpose.

However, due to rising caseloads, criminal cost payments totaled $2,849,253.38 in fiscal 1976.

In early May Ferguson requested and received from the State Controlling Board $750,000 of the $2,226,000 fiscal 1977 criminal cost appropriation to meet the fiscal 1976 obligation.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR THURSDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Some difficulty in communication likely. Be especially careful in what you tell another "confidentially." It could boomerang.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Under splendid Venus influences, your imagination is heightened. Give your creative ideas the "full treatment." They should work out well.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): If you have any doubts or uncertainties about launching a certain project, it would be well to heed. Try to find the underlying reason for your hesitancy.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): A good day for "pulling strings." Persons of influence will be highly amenable should you need their help.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Curb tendencies toward combativeness. You can be your independent self without being arrogant or domineering — and you'll gain more.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Ride along with propitious influences now. Acquaint yourself with new trends and take measures as occasion demands.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Some unexpected situations could throw you "off base," cause confusion or misunderstanding. Be alert. Also, avoid impulsiveness in word or action.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): Fine Mars influences now give you a fresh basis for estimating potentials in considering long-range programs. DO make the most of them!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Routine matters may give most concern. Employ "tried and true" methods in areas where you must act but have a little to go on for reference.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Avoid a tendency toward wishful thinking. Realism and objectivity needed in all situations. Optimism, too!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Be sure before you undertake any new venture, but do not doubt your ability to handle one. Just be certain of the facts and be guided by logic.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): You will have less opposition in certain areas than you expect. Take the bit by the teeth; put beliefs, intuitive ideas actively to work.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with many assets which, properly used, can lead to a highly successful and satisfying life. Like most Cancerians, you are a true humanitarian and could succeed in such professions as medicine, nursing or sociology. You also could take an active part in institutional work and, having been endowed with a gift for words, could use your writing ability to promote civic, educational or welfare projects. You have a remarkably retentive memory and this, coupled with your affinity for heritage and tradition, would make you an outstanding historian or educator. Travel appeals to you more than it does to many of this zodiacal sector, and may actually lead you into the fields of exploration or archeology. Your musical ability, love of the loyalty to family and friends and your patriotism are outstanding. Birthdate of: Olivia de Havilland, film star.

SHOT TOWER — This 120-year-old shot tower at Dubuque, Ia., will be put to use again in celebration of the bicentennial.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR THURSDAY
ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Some difficulty in communication likely. Be especially careful in what you tell another "confidentially." It could boomerang.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Under splendid Venus influences, your imagination is heightened. Give your creative ideas the "full treatment." They should work out well.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): If you have any doubts or uncertainties about launching a certain project, it would be well to heed. Try to find the underlying reason for your hesitancy.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): A good day for "pulling strings." Persons of influence will be highly amenable should you need their help.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Curb tendencies toward combativeness. You can be your independent self without being arrogant or domineering — and you'll gain more.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Ride along with propitious influences now. Acquaint yourself with new trends and take measures as occasion demands.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Some unexpected situations could throw you "off base," cause confusion or misunderstanding. Be alert. Also, avoid impulsiveness in word or action.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): Fine Mars influences now give you a fresh basis for estimating potentials in considering long-range programs. DO make the most of them!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Routine matters may give most concern. Employ "tried and true" methods in areas where you must act but have a little to go on for reference.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Avoid a tendency toward wishful thinking. Realism and objectivity needed in all situations. Optimism, too!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Be sure before you undertake any new venture, but do not doubt your ability to handle one. Just be certain of the facts and be guided by logic.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): You will have less opposition in certain areas than you expect. Take the bit by the teeth; put beliefs, intuitive ideas actively to work.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with many assets which, properly used, can lead to a highly successful and satisfying life. Like most Cancerians, you are a true humanitarian and could succeed in such professions as medicine, nursing or sociology. Views On Television

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Not even the Bicentennial escapes television's "equal time" provisions.

The first name that came to mind when the producers of CBS' nightly "Bicentennial Minutes" series were casting their commemorative July 4 installment was Gerald R. Ford.

But since he is campaigning to keep his job, other presidential candidates also would have to be given 60 seconds of air time if he did a "Bicentennial Minute."

That wouldn't be so bad if the other guys also did a "Minute," but the "equal time" rule says they would be free to use the time any way they wished. So the producers chose Mrs. Gerald Ford.

"I really feel Mrs. Ford is perfect," says Paul Waigner, producer of "Minutes." "She is one of the most important people in our country. We're all just delighted with it."

The episode was taped in the First Lady's garden at the White House and is scheduled to air Sunday at approximately 8:57 p.m. on the East and West coasts, an hour earlier in the Central Time Zone. In it Mrs. Ford talks about the signing of the Declaration of Independence. Sunday will mark the second birthday of the "Bicentennial Minutes." The historical tidbits began on July 4, 1974 and originally were to have concluded on this July Fourth.

But it has proven to be so popular — and justifiably so — that CBS is keeping it on the air at least through the end of the year.

Waigner welcomes the extension.

"The most exciting part of the revolution came later anyway," he explains. "We want to show how signing that Declaration affected everybody — the important people and the general public, too. The revolution did go on for eight years. We've got a lot to cover."

The producer believes "Bicentennial Minutes" has been a success because the creative staff approaches the project as they would any other TV program. Each episode may last only a minute but it nevertheless contains a story, a star, titles, graphics, music, sound effects — even a commercial.

More than 15 persons work full time on the series, and Waigner says 4½ to five hours of production time go into each installment — not counting research and writing time.

California Seals
Eye Cleveland
Move

CLEVELAND (AP) — The owners of the California Seals say they are confident the financial details can be worked out to bring the National Hockey League club to Cleveland.

The NHL board of governors accepted the move Wednesday on condition that the details would be worked out in about two weeks. Two of the remaining stumbling blocks are the inclusion of local ownership for the club and the signing of a lease with the Richfield Coliseum.

"I don't foresee any problems," said Mel Swig, who is a major owner of the Seals together with George Gund III.

"We both would like to see local ownership. We want to make sure the team is viable and has a good financial picture."

MaloneyAcquitted Of*Hockey Assault

TORONTO (AP) — Dan Maloney, a left winger for the Detroit Red Wings, has been acquitted of assault causing bodily harm during a National Hockey League game. Along with the verdict Wednesday, the county court jury issued a statement requesting an end to hockey violence.

The foreman of the jury, whose 12 members deliberated 9 hours and 25 minutes, said the jury asked that measures be taken to prevent incidents similar to the clash between Maloney and Brian Glennie, a defenseman for the Toronto Maple Leafs, in a game in Toronto last Nov. 5.

Mining operations at Climax, Colo., supply about three-fourths of the nation's molybdenum, which is used as an alloy to harden tool steel.

Dr. Charles Howell, dentistry college dean, said the change in classifications was a concern but one he felt certain the school could correct.

He said immediate steps have been instituted to correct deficiencies listed in the school's advanced endodontics, periodontics and prosthodontics programs.

At Rosecliff, great sprigs of flowers adorned the veranda. Pink striped tents surrounded the fountain, guarded by statues of cherubs, where a famous Gatsby party scene was filmed. The fountain was circled with the flags of the nations taking part in the tall ships event.

At one point, Capt. von Stackelberg pronounced the bash, "a typical warm party — and wealthy."

Recalling that Brown was rebuked by President Ford for his 1974 remarks at Duke University, Sen. Thomas J. McIntyre, D-N.H., said Brown's responses Monday "clearly indicate no substantive change in his attitude."

Sen. Robert A. Taft, R-Ohio, said Brown has shown "a lack of sensitivity to public opinion that is particularly inappropriate for one in his position."

OF MANNERS — Some young puppies have no manners at all. Brazen attempt of brash youngster in the middle has shaken the young lady at right and will probably have the same effect on the young thing at left.

PATRIOTIC TRUCK — Star spangled liquified petroleum gas tanks offer a bicentennial salute to America. The LP-gas transport was fashioned at the American Welding and Tank Company at Plant City, Fla.

Tax Ruling Staggers Teamsters

WASHINGTON (AP) — The loss of tax-exempt status for the Teamsters union's biggest pension fund could have a devastating impact on the fund itself, the employers who finance it and the pensioners who benefit from it, says a key trucking industry official.
